"BLACKGUARD," YELLED SENATOR TO COAL OPERATOR

Martine, of New Jersey, and Quinn Morton Nearly Fight Because of the West Virginia Probe.

INVITED TO TAKE DRINK, MARTINE GREW FURIOUS

Senator Denounced Morton, and They Were Kept Apart by Force—Morton Denies Using Machine Gun.

Charleston, W. Va., June 17.—At a stormy session of the senate mine strike committee at which a near fist fight between Senator Martine, of New Jersey, and Quinn Morton, manager of the Paint Creek Operators' association, was narrowly avoided the coal operations of Paint and Cabin Creeks today presented their side of the controversy.

Mr. Morton was the principal witness for the operators. His discussion of the attack on the strikers' camp at Holly Grove from an armored train, precipitated the clash with Senator Martine at the close of the morning session.

During the clash Senator Martine called Morton a "blackguard." They were prevented from fighting by bystanders.

This afternon following an earnest conference between Senators Swanson, Kenyon and Martine, Senator Kenyon took charge of the hearing and Senator Martine did not ask a single question, although he had been a persistent examiner during the morning.

All through the morning session feeling ran high, counsel for the operators three times protesting against the methods of examination employed by Senator Martine. The afternoon session went off quietly.

The committee made plans tonight to conclude the examination of witnesses tomorrow afternoon and to start for Washington that evening. Many witnesses will be left to be examined in Washington when hearings are re-opened and the committee may determine to return to Charleston later.

Conditions were quiet among the miners on Paint and Cabin Creeks today, according to the advices from the hills, although officials of the United Mine Workers declared they expected further trouble soon. The union board for the New Riverfield district will meet tomorrow to consider a strike, which, if declared, it will involve nearly 15,000 men.

Morton Defends Operators.

Quinn Morton defended the position taken by his employers throughout, declaring they were utterly unable to accede to the terms offered by the miners, although the latter were narrowed down to recognition of the union. He went into details as to the negotiations which preceded the strike in April, 1912.

Mr. Morton and others discussed at length the fight at the miners' camp at Holly Grove on the night of February 7, when witnesses for the miners testified a machine gun raked the town from an armored train. Mr. Morton flatly denied the statement of Sam Calvin, an ex-mine guard, called by the miners, that he had urged that the train be backed up and that the men on board "give them another round." This statement and Calvin's declaration that Morton had remarked, "Didn't we give them hell," after the train passed the town, were the disputed points which Mr. Morton vigorously denied and precipitated the clash between the witness and Senator Martine.

When Chairman Swanson announced the noon adjournment, Mr. Morton remarked, "Well all go down and take a few drinks and then we'll feel better." Senator Martine boiled over, and Sergeant-at-Arms Higgin, Senators Kenyon and Swanson had difficulty quieting things.

This afternoon K. S. Leitch, engineer, and William Lardy, fireman, of the armored train the night of the Holly Grove fight, both testified that the first shots were fired from the hills, along the tracks, at Holly Grove.

The engineer said he dropped to his knees beside the boiler of his engine and rode there until the firing ceased. He received a flesh wound in the hand from a bullet. When the train reached Mukler he said he found on the engine's tender marks of seven bullets and a load of buckshot. All his testimony was corroborated by his fireman, who said he took refuge in the coal on the tender when the bullets began to fly.

Called Senator a Bully.

A controversy between C. C. Watts, of counsel for the operators and Senator Martine also enlivened today's session. Senator Martine was examining Dr. J. W. Ashby, physician for the Cabin Creek Consolidating Coal company as to sanitary conditions in

NOT ONE DOLLAR PAID TO SCHOOLS FOR CURRENT YEAR

Usually From Ten to Fifteen Per Cent of the Fund Has Been Disbursed by This Time.

REVENUE FOR 1912-13 HALF MILLION BEHIND

Hoke Smith's Forecast of a Deficit of $300,000 for This Period Proves to Be Much Too Small.

When the legislature meets next week it will find:

First, That its predecessor, the general assembly of 1911-12 passed appropriations nearly $500,000 in excess of the revenues of the state for the two years for which it acted, namely, 1912 and 1913.

Second, That not one dollar will have been paid from the state treasury of the $2,500,000 appropriated for the public schools for the current year.

As was reported in The Constitution it was not until last week that the last payment on the school fund for 1912, amounting to a little over $17,000, was made from the treasury.

The Comptroller's Figures.

The figures of Comptroller General William A. Wright speak for themselves. Taking the two years for which provision was supposed to have been made by the last legislature, we find:

The revenue of the state for 1912 from all sources was, in round numbers, $5,610,000; appropriations for the same year amounted to $5,942,000. This would have given an excess of appropriations over revenue of $339,000, on which the treasury would have had to begin the year 1913.

But fortunately for the state, the tax assessments of last year showed an increase over the year preceding of $29,000,000, in round numbers. Figuring with the tax rate of 5 mills and deducting 6 per cent for the cost of collection, we have an increase of revenue coming from this sum of $136,300. Deducting this from the estimated deficit, $339,000 we have a net deficit of $202,700.

No Increase This Year.

Now for the current year. It may be stated in the outset that Comptroller General Wright does not anticipate any such increase in tax assessments as was shown last year. Considering that last year was a very bad crop year and that there has been much complaint of financial stringency, the comptroller feels that the state will do well to maintain the figures of last year, which showed taxable values amounting to $542,358,842. This would give an estimated revenue for the current year of $5,873,000.

There have already been appropriated for this year by last year's general assembly $5,904,567. The comptroller then, accordingly, estimates the deficit for this year at $231,567. Adding this to last year's deficit, we have a deficit for the two years aggregating $434,262.

Schools Suffer Most.

It has been chiefly the public schools that have suffered from this widely growing divergency between revenue and appropriations. Up to three or four years ago, it had been customary to disburse by the 1st of September next year to disburse any of the school fund before about November 1. It will only be a question of two or three more years when the state will find itself a whole year behind on its payments to the schools.

Of course, everyone in Georgia knows that this condition of affairs is not a new one. The attention of the general assembly has been called repeatedly to the situation, but within the last half dozen years by governors of both political factions.

Hoke Smith's Forecast.

It is noteworthy of remembrance at this time that Governor Hoke Smith, when he signed the general appropriation bill of 1911, making provision for the two years under review, foretold that it would result in a treasury deficit of $200,000. In signing the bill, he wrote:

"I have approved the general appropriation bill and the special appropriation bills, but am satisfied that entire appropriations made will exceed the total revenue of the state for 1912 and 1913 approximately $200,000, unless the revenues of the state are increased next summer (1912). The state cannot pay any portion of the $300,000 increase to public schools next year. The bill allows the entire sum to go over until 1913. The reduced surplus on hand the first day of January and the revenue for next year will make the postponement of this payment essential. Next year the legislature can either provide for an increase in revenue for 1913, or reduce the appropriations payable in 1913. This is a subject which I feel should be left by me to the legislature at its next session."

Appropriated More.

Far from acting on Governor Smith's suggestion and either increasing revenue or decreasing appropriations at its next session, the legislature added in special appropriations in round numbers $160,000 for the year 1912 and $91,000 for 1913. As a result, we find that Governor Smith's estimated treasury deficit of the strike zone. Dr. Ashby said san-

"JUNE AFTERNOON"

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL INJURED BY AUTO

Eugenia Green Is Run Down and Painfully Hurt by Car of M. M. Simmons.

Following an automobile accident in which 12-year-old Eugenia Green was run down and painfully injured last night about 8 o'clock at Ponce de Leon avenue and Barnett street, M. M. Simmons, district superintendent of the Southern Bell Telephone company, was required to give bond of $200 at police headquarters for appearance in recorder's court Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Eye-witnesses say the accident was unavoidable.

The girl sustained a broken leg and minor bruises about the body and hands. She was carried first to the home of her mother, Mrs. Lula Bell Green, at 152 Barnett street. Later she was removed to St. Joseph's infirmary.

Eugenia was walking with her companion across Ponce de Leon avenue on the way to a neighbor's for a supply of milk. She carried an empty bottle in her hand. As they reached the intersection of Barnett at Ponce de Leon Eugenia started across the street several paces ahead of her chum.

Traveling uptown along Ponce de Leon avenue was the big touring car driven by Mr. Simmons. It was occupied by John L. Brown, of 1010 Peachtree street; R. E. Robinson, of 253 Ivy street, and T. H. Brewer, of 1010 Peachtree, all four of whom had been to Decatur on a day's fishing outing. The machine, it is said by eye-witnesses, was not traveling at a rate over 10 or 12 miles an hour.

Directly in path of the car stepped the little girl. Her companion called for her to run ahead and even caught hold of the imperilled girl's arm. Mr. Simmons, seeing the child's danger, swerved his machine dangerously near the curbing, but the girl stepped backward, it is stated, directly in the auto's path. The leftland fender hit her and she was thrown to the street. The bottle which she was carrying crashed into a head lamp, breaking out the glass.

The car was stopped instantly. The child was put on the cushions and rushed to her home. Later a physician carried her in his automobile to St. Joseph's. Mr. Simmons drove to police headquarters, where Night Chief Jett was notified of the accident.

Upon investigating Motorcycle Policeman Wood reported back to headquarters. Mr. Simmons was required to give bond of $200 as a matter of form and a charge of reckless driving of an automobile was docketed against him. The occupants of his car were given subpoenas to appear as witnesses.

"The girl apparently did not realize her danger," Mr. Simmons told a Constitution reporter at headquarters. "She seemed undecided which way to go and evidently thought the machine would take a course opposite to the one which we traveled.

"I did everything possible to prevent the accident."

The victim is slightly near-sighted, it is said, and to this fact is attributed her inability to get out of the way of the machine.

Louis Maire to Speak.

Louis P. Maire, of Detroit, international president of the automobile, carriage and wagon workers, will reach Atlanta this morning as a guest of the Atlanta socialists for a few days. Mr. Maire will deliver an address to the two movements this evening at the Labor Temple auditorium, 112 Trinity avenue, the subject of his talk being "Independence and Its Application to the Men Who Work."

Lovers of Hoe Cake And of "Pot Licker" To Organize Society

Old Country Society, With Unique Membership Requirements, Will Soon Be Formed in Atlanta.

If in your youth you drank pot-licker and ate ashcakes, if you still remember the crooning of your old southern "mammy" as she sang you to sleep years ago on the old plantation, then you are eligible to join the Old Country society, which will be organized ntxt wtek by C. H. Burge, of Atlanta, to preserve the ante-bellum traditions of Georgia.

There are only two requirements for admission. You must have been reared in the country of the southland not later than reconstruction days, and you must not be ashamed to admit that you are as old as you really are.

"What we wish to do," said C. H. Burge, the leading spirit of the incipient organization, "is to get together all of those in Atlanta who answer these requirements and from time to time talk over the days that are forever past.

"It is surprising to know how many prosperous men in Atlanta today once had hayseed in their hair. It is such as these that we wish to embrace in this society.

"After we get fully organized we shall write a number of articles dealing with traditions and customs of the old south. We think that such would make most interesting reading.

"Likewise we are going to gather all the old ex-slaves that we can find —and they are mighty few—and hear their tales of more matter and missus, as they remember them."

Among those who have signified their intention of joining are: H. N. Smith, of South Pryor street; C. J. Burton, 87 Whitehall Terrace; W. J. Moncrief, of the local police force; J. S. Puckett, of College Park, Ga.; Dr. D. M. Houk, 45 Melvanie street; T. M. Summers, of South Pryor street; I. N. Willis; T. P. Rule, of Hapeville; W. O. Alexander and G. P. Wright, of College Park, and old "Uncle" William Dixon, honorary member, who is an ex-slave.

NATHANIEL P. T. FINCH SUCCUMBS TO APOPLEXY

Once Connected With The Constitution and Close Friend of Joel Chandler Harris.

Birmingham, Ala., June 17.—Nathaniel P. T. Finch, editorial writer on The Birmingham Age-Herald since 1898, died here today of apoplexy, at the age of 75 years. Mr. Finch formerly owned an interest in The Atlanta Constitution, but sold his holdings in 1886. He was an intimate friend of the late Joel Chandler Harris and enjoyed a wide acquaintance among men in public life.

He served in the civil war in the 179th New York Volunteers and did extensive work as a war correspondent.

His remains will leave Birmingham Wednesday night for interment in the officers' section of Arlington National cemetery in Washington

CRIME INCREASES WITH HOT WEATHER

Nine Homicides, Twenty Hold-Ups and Sixty-Five Burglaries Reported to the Police Since May 1.

Nine homicides, twenty hold-ups and sixty-five burglaries tell the story of Atlanta's police record since May 1.

Sweeping over the city, a crime wave is establishing unsavory history for Atlanta. Never before in police annals have conditions been so disorderly during the summer season.

Police officials are unable to account for it. Both Chief Beavers and Detective Chief Lanford told a reporter for The Constitution last night that it was most unusual for crime to be so prevalent during this time of the year.

The detective bureau has been overwhelmed with work. The staff of men is badly overworked, and many of the star men have frequently been forced to labor sixteen and twenty hours daily. Chief Lanford has already applied for more men in order to compete with conditions.

Charges Are Expected.

A careful study of the situation has been given by Chief Beavers since his return from Washington. He intimates that changes will be made immediately in the department, and that steps will be taken to throw greater police safeguard over all sections of the city.

Deploring the absence of police substations for which he made recent application before the board of commissioners, the chief declares that such additions to the department would aid wonderfully. Since the recent vice agitation, the plain clothes 'vice squad' has been re-established with its original number of men.

The reserve force has been augmented by men detached from the mounted squad, and more men have been sent into the residential sections for night-ly patrol. Eight motorcyles are now in use, while heretofore only four were employed.

Nine homicides have occurred since May 1. Most of these were negroes. Two double killings were committed, the last of which, the slaying of Dave Yancey, nearly resulted in a lynching Monday at noon. Yancey's slayer was riddled by bullets fired by policemen. He died later in Grady hospital.

First Double Killing.

The first double slaying was committed on Capitol avenue, on the night of June 13, when Hilley Johnson, a negro youth, stabbed his sweetheart, Mabel Huckleberry, in a fit of jealous passion. Johnson was wounded by the girl, and, in desperation, slashed his own throat as he fell to the sidewalk. Both died instantly.

In consecutive order, the following homicides were committed since May 1:

Sam Fambro, a negro, was stabbed to death at 171 Mitchell street on the night of May 1. Roy Brannen, another negro, suspected by the police of having committed the deed, escaped and has not been caught.

John Smith, a negro man, middle aged, was shot and killed by John H. Allen, another negro, on May 19, in Darktown. Allen was also badly cut by his victim, and is still in a precarious condition. Allen was captured.

Andrew Towns, colored, was shot and killed at 172 Gray street on the night

Trail of Sugar "Lobby" Struck by the Probers And Chase Grows Hot

Letters and Telegrams Discovered Showing a Far-Reaching Campaign to Create Public Sentiment Against Putting Sugar on Free List.

EFFORTS MADE TO USE PRESS ASSOCIATIONS AND THE NEWSPAPERS

In Some Instances Agents of Beet Sugar Factories Put Their Stories Over, But in Many Cases They Failed. Proposed to Subsidize One Chicago Paper—Railroads Were Enlisted in Fight.

Washington, June 17.—The trail of the "lobby" the senate has been following more than two weeks led today into the private files of the men in charge of the Washington offices of the United States beet sugar industry, the leading instrument of the campaign against free sugar, and, by originals of letters and telegrams and what purported to be copies of others, developed testimony of what appeared to be an attempt at a far-reaching campaign to create public sentiment against free sugar through the columns of individual newspapers and the facilities of press associations.

Trail Long and Winding.

It was a trail long, tortuous, complicated and so winding, that after more than two hours of patient effort, the committee had succeeded in getting into its record only a small part of the mass of correspondence, which senators believed had produced the most sensational evidence yet developed.

By subpoena duces tecum the committee got possession of copies of letters and telegrams of Clarence G. Hamlin, a Colorado Springs, Colo., newspaper owner, and beet sugar man, in charge of the Washington offices of the American Beet Sugar association, two years ago. The papers included what purported to be carbon copies of letters, unsigned, but furnished as genuine by Harry A. Austin, a clerk in the offices of Truman G. Palmer, representative of the United States beet sugar industry.

The "industry" succeeded the "association" about two years ago, and Palmer succeeded Hamlin in charge.

While the committee was after the private papers, Palmer, after conference with Senator Clark, of Wyoming, Hamlin's uncle, was wiring Hamlin, urging *him to get a lawyer to repre*sent his interests. The committee had knowledge of that and hurried the letters into the record without regard to sequence. More than seventy had been read when adjournment was taken tonight.

Hamlin Very Active.

Those read into the record were directed to managers of beet sugar companies, officers of the American Beet Sugar association, and friends of Hamlin, indicating that Hamlin at the time of their writing was an active figure in a campaign to organize support for the protection of the beet sugar industry and secure publicity against tariff reductions.

Some long old Hamlin traveling to large cities, giving out interviews; others, written in Washington, indicated that he was trying to circulate matter in defiance of a sugar duty through newspapers, the Associated Press and other channels, to offset what he thought misleading state-

SIX WOMEN SWEAR TO END THEIR LIVES BY HUNGER STRIKE

Most Prominent Militant Suffragettes in England Are Given Long Terms in Prison at Hard Labor.

WE'LL ALL DIE TOGETHER THEY SHOUTED AT JUDGE

In Impassioned Speech Miss Kenney Arraigns Judge as Hounder of Women—Says She Will Die for the Ballot.

London, June 17.—Six of the most prominent leaders of the militant suffragettes organization and one of their male supporters were today found guilty of conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property.

The women, officials of the Women's Social and Political union, are Miss Harriet Kerr, Miss Agnes Lake, Miss Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, Miss Annie Kenney and Miss Laura Lannox. The man is Edward V. Clayton, an analytical chemist.

An impassioned speech in defense of the outrages committed by militant suffragettes was delivered in court by Miss Annie Kenney.

Her address served to enliven the proceedings and her concluding words created a great impression.

Willing to Die for Ballot.

"If I have got to die to get the vote," she said, "I will die willingly, whatever the verdict of the jury today."

Greater interest was taken in today's proceedings than in the previous stage of the trial. The courtroom was crowded. Women formed the majority of the audience, among them being Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the first lord of the admiralty, and Miss Violet Asquith, daughter of the premier.

Miss Kenney assented that the action of the Ulster unionists and the speeches of cabinet ministers, who she said, had assented that the unenfranchised were justified in rebelling to get their grievances remedied, furnished ample warrant for militancy.

"If further justification were necessary," she said, "the trickery and treachery of cabinet ministers supplied it. *The present government has treat*ed the aspirations of the women more abominably than any British government since 1867.

"As for myself, I belong to the working class. I joined the suffrage movement because of the terribly cruel conditions under which women worked in the British Isles.

"I Am a Rebel."

"I am a rebel and a rebel I shall remain until women receive the vote. If, like Parnell, I should find it necessary for me to sacrifice my life, then I shall gladly die."

Sentence was passed on the suffragettes as follows:

Miss Kenney, 18 months; Mrs. Saunders, 15 months; Miss Kerr, 12 months; Miss Barnett, 9 months; Miss Lake and Miss Lennox, 6 months each; Mr. Clayton, 21 months.

All the prisoners were committed to the third division which entails hard labor.

Each defendant was bound over to keep the peace for a year after the period of imprisonment.

With the exception of Mrs. Saunders, all the women loudly proclaimed their intention of going on a "hunger strike."

The Judge to the Women.

Prior to passing sentence the judge said that doubtless the prisoners sincerely believed that by their lawless conduct they were forwarding a good cause.

"Some of you must be religious," he continued, "if you are to say at the least you must be alive in a moral governor of the universe. I commend to you the statement of a modern writer —a woman I believe—who characterizes the belief that the end justifies the means as 'treason against the Almighty.'"

Whatever the motives of the prisoners, Judge Phillimore said he must treat them as persons who had done a very grave injury to public peace and amust be restrained from doing further mischief and made to some extent an example to others.

After passing sentences he said:

"One of the counsel had suggested that the time for clemency has passed, and I do not think you will meet with quite the same treatment as have the others. I am bound to add that if the home secretary consults me, as he often consults a judge, I shall take upon myself the responsibility of saying to him that the ring leaders among you, at any rate, should not be let out of prison under any circumstances."

All to Die Together.

"Then we shall all die together," exclaimed Miss Kenney.

The judge: "If you, in the words of our great poet violate the great canon, the everlasting has fixed against self-slaughter you will have to reconcile such action with your conscience."

Miss Kenney: "I am quite prepared to do that."

Miss Barrett, excitedly: "We shall all hunger strike."

Mrs. Saunders: "Miss Kenney will not keep me in prison against my will."

Miss Kenney: "They have got to let me out or kill me. I think your summing up was most biased and unfair. You ought to be ashamed of yourself to receive 5,000 pounds a year for hounding women."

Section Director.

The text indicated that his attempts at publicity had not always been as successful as he had hoped. Other letters referred to a plan launched by Hamlin to have the large beet sugar companies take over $35,000 in bonds of Chicago Inter-Ocean. Other letters disclosed attempts to interest big railroad systems in the anti-free sugar campaign and to have professors of agricultural colleges to appear before committees of congress with arguments favorable to the beet sugar men.

None of the letters disclosed that the railroads had been interested or that the great news agencies had been extensively used or that the Intercocan bonds had been bought.

Big Bill of Telegrams.

Letters introduced did show that the sugar men had been dissatisfied with their efforts to get "interviews" carried by the Associated Press.

Austin and a sergeant at arms of the senate brought a big box of the telegrams and letters to the committee room late afternoon. The committee suspended the examination of witnesses and Chairman Overman, Senators Reed and walsh began reading them into the record.

Two telegrams were exchanged between Hamlin, Senator Clark and Truman G. Palmer. The first of these, given out by Palmer after the committee adjourned tonight, read:

"Senate sergeant at arms had required Austin to produce office book said to contain your private and business papers. Have talked with your uncle and we suggest you should wire retaining attorney to protect your rights under fourth amendment to the constitution until son arrive."

Hamlin's telegram in reply, sent to his up le, Senator Clark, was given to the committee. It said:

"Have wire from Palmer suggesting retain attorney to prevent delivery of my papers to committee. Austin, on whom service is made, may have some of mine also. Am sending you no papers, but so far as I remember there is nothing among them which I would object to being made public."

Hamlin added that he would employ Washington attorneys if Senator Clark thought it advisable.

The correspondence covered much of 1911 and the early part of 1912 when the Underwood free sugar bill was introduced in the house.

Got Stories in the Papers.

The letters produced indicated that Hamlin had made contracts with "news plate" concerns that furnish matter to small newspapers and had urged beet sugar men in different parts of the country to attempt to secure publicity in their own localities and through news associations. Included in the mass of correspondence were letters from Aaron Gove which showed that he had made an extensive tour for the same purpose.

One letter from the Hamlin file, written from Washington on December 2, 1911, to Charles H. Warren, president of the Michigan Sugar company, said in part: "Visited one big town each day of my trip and invariably succeeded in getting our story in at least one of the leading papers. Of course some handled it more satisfactorily than others, but generally speaking, they all did well."

The writer enumerated nearly a dozen large papers in the middle west in which he said he had got "our story" printed.

The value of publicity was emphasized further in another letter written at Fargo, N. D., by Gove to Hamlin in Washington. It referred to an interview that had gone out which was designated as the "arbuckle interview" and Gove urged the use of "patent inside" to reach the country readers.

Gets Votes Little by Little

"Shall use those patent insides," he said. "When I looked it up I found that a stack of stuff every week was not exorbitant in price and I am sure enough does get before the voters litti by little and eas in."

Another of the Gove letters signed and dated August 4, 1911, threw some light on the activities of the beet sugar forces while the Hardwick committee of the house was investigating the so-called "sugar trust." Mr. Gove said it would require some skill to itemize his expense account so it could be checked up by an auditing board.

"We have had an interesting time," the letter continued. "Palmer is before the committee on his third day today. He is acquitting well, and entertained them in New York with. I learn, good effect. The Hardwick committee report will reach over to December and will be less harmful than I hoped."

Members of the committee asked who "H. T." was.

"I suppose it was Mr. Oxnard," said Senator Reed.

Mr. Oxnard's initials are "H. T."

The letter added: "Bristow insists that he will yet get in his sugar amendment. Of course it would likely end with the veto of the executive, but I don't forget that it is only four months to the session when something will be doing in earnest. I have had some very encouraging interviews as to next winter, but the issue promises to be warmly contested. Senators like Borah insist that they want to be shown. He used those words to me this morning."

A letter to Hamlin from H. A. Douglass, of the Minnesota Sugar company, of Chaska, Minn., dated at Detroit, April 6 1912, said:

"We think it would be the wise plan to have Mr. C. T. Fenton, manager of the Minnesota Sugar company, who is now in Washington, meet the Iowa Senators and advise them of the possibility of the Minnesota Sugar company extending its interests in northern Iowa in case of a satisfactory sugar tariff settlement."

Satisfied About Senator Works.

A copy of a letter purporting to have been written by Hamlin to J. Ross Clark, of Los Angeles, and dated Washington, January 18, 1912, said in part:

Mr. Case had another conference with Senator Works yesterday and is satisfied that he will do all he can for us.

Replying to that letter Clark wrote January 23, 1912, to Mr. Hamlin:

"I am glad Mr. Case had a talk with Senator Works. I feel quite sure that he will have to keep in line."

A letter to C. B. Warren, president of the Michigan Sugar company, dated February, 1912, and apparently from Hamlin, said:

"Mr. Eckett, from Iowa, who is classed as an insurgent, will make one of the principal speeches in opposition to any sugar measure that may be brought in. Mr. Palmer is now at work on the necessary data. He will take the question up from the standpoint of its being a refiner's propaganda and also from the consumer's stand. Mr. Mondell, of Wyoming, also wishes to enter the fight on the floor and to be equipped with the necessary information. It is for him that I want Mr. Hathaway to prepare a brief. Have two purposes as far as the principal one being that in furnishing information for two persons, it is well to have the question approached from two different viewpoints, and it is difficult for one man to prepare a brief for two persons without their running along the same lines. This is very important and the sooner it is done the better. It might be well if Mr. Hathaway would come here and do the work on the ground. If he does I will arrange matters so he can get into immediate touch with Mondell, Eckett and Farrell, what he wants. It seems to me wise to have this question presented, as far as possible, by members whose districts or states are not largely interested in the industry."

Tries to Warn Associated Press.

The efforts of Hamlin to get publicity through the Associated Press and leading newspapers was touched on in a number of letters, but what appeared to be a copy of a Hamlin letter to Gove at Fargo, November 9, 1911, the writer declared that the so-called "Arbuckle interview" had "gone into practically every paper in the United States."

"After taking up the matter with Mr. Morey," the letter added, "and after securing an agreement with the Associated Press to handle 650 words, I gave out the interview, and while it was well handled locally, the eastern papers took only about a dozen lines. As a matter of fact, I would have preferred that they had handled it entirely. I have taken the matter up with Melville Stone, of the Associated Press, demanding that we have for the beet sugar industry receive at least the same treatment as the eastern refiners."

In another letter to Warren, at Detroit, with the initials C. S. M., as a dictation mark, the writer said he had taken up the matter of the failure to get publicity through the Associated Press with Mr. Stone.

"Herewith copy of letter received from Mr. Morey," the writer said in the letter, and it ended, "if this matter is followed up we shall be able to get our stuff handled in the Associated Press in satisfactory manner. I will be in New York some time next week and will take it up in person."

Warren wrote to Hamlin November 18, 1911:

"I do not think well of your idea of writing all the papers that did not carry your Associated Press story. We have found that whenever a paper that is unfriendly to the tariff generally, or to the sugar tariff, is approached, the result is an unfriendly article. You will probably have to rely upon getting out what you can, and not find fault when everybody does not carry an interview."

Bonds of Chicago Paper.

The correspondence relating to the proposed purchase of Chicago Inter-Ocean bonds by the sugar companies began with the copy of a letter dated March 20, 1912 addressed to Warren The copy was not signed, but was included in the "Hamlin correspondence." It stated that Mr. Hinman, who controlled the Chicago Inter-Ocean, desired assistance in placing $35,000 worth of bonds of the paper, the total bonded indebtedness as stated in the letter being $600,000.

HONOR TO COL. PAXON.

COLONEL F. J. PAXON.

Will Continue as Chief of Staff Under Governor Slaton.

While the appointment has not been announced officially, it is understood that Colonel Fred J. Paxon will continue as the chief of staff of Governor-elect Slaton, just as he has been chief of staff for Governor Brown during his two terms in office. Usually the staff appointments generally go on personal friendship, it is a singular tribute to the popularity of Colonel Paxon that he should be asked to serve as the chief of staff of two successive governors.

DR. RILEY TO PREACH AT BAPTIST TABERNACLE

Dr. H. B. Riley, the Minneapolis evangelist, arrived in Atlanta last evening from a great revival in Asheville, N. C., and is now at the Baptist Tabernacle church. He comes to Atlanta after a strenuous week, which reached its climax on Sunday, when he spoke four times at the Asheville conference, when eight people made profession of Christianity as a result of the single day's work. Dr. Riley will speak at 10 o'clock tonight on the "Master Circle" at the Baptist Tabernacle.

In his address on "A Colossal Work" on Monday night Dr. Riley urged a fight for the winning of souls, and especially the recovery of the backslider. "Salvation is not sanctification and sanctification is not glorification," he said.

"There are men who have digressed from the truth so far that they have lost their hope of heaven, and yet in their hearts God once did a work of grace. To recover them is our job.

"It may be that men don't want to be bothered about their religious condition, but I bear testimony that the man who bothered me most when I was dead spiritually was a best friend. To him I owe my salvation. Let us trouble men now, that they fall not into the eternal, horrible and endless death."

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN BY COLLEGE OF MUSIC

An enthusiastic audience applauded the closing exercises of the Evelyn Jackson College of Music last night, when several members of the school received their diplomas in music. The climax of the evening's program was the presentation of prizes by Miss Jeannette Victor, president of the Masters' club, composed of all the students of the college.

The program included "Hard! Hark! Hark! the Lark (Shubert-Listt), by Miss Jeanette Victor; "Waltz Etude" (Schumann), by Miss Katie Richardson, and other solos by the Misses Kathryn Blake, Annie Johnson, Mabel Wikle, Mary Mercer, Evelyn Dunson, Clara Belle King, Elizabeth Bialock and Carolyn Benjamin. The program was concluded by the awarding of diplomas and medals by Rev. A. H. Gordon.

FLYNN HARGETT OFFERS FOR SENATE MESSENGER

Flynn Hargett, who for many years has been messenger of the state senate, is again in the race for re-election. He has compiled a most unique campaign document—a directory of the statehouse officials and members of the general assembly of Georgia. On one page of his little booklet is an announcement of his candidacy, and then follows several pages of indorsements in the form of official resolutions passed by the senate and personal indorsements from acquaintances with whom he has served.

Mrs. Floyd Foster.

Mrs. Floyd Foster died at St. Joseph's Infirmary at 2 o'clock yesterday after a short illness. She is survived by her husband and four children, two sisters, Mrs R. P. Jones, of Atlanta, and Mrs W. E. Small, of Macon, Ga. and one brother, William Bailey Thomas of Jacksonville Fla. The funeral party left at noon Tuesday for Covington, where Mrs. Foster will be interred in the burial plot of her father, William Bailey Thomas.

"SEPTEMBER MORN" ENVIED ON TUESDAY

With Temperature Reaching 96.4 Maximum, Atlantans Found Her Garb a Most Comfortable One.

There were waves and waves in Atlanta Tuesday. In a show window down on Whitehall street a lissome maid, clad only in her dainty beauty, shivered in the cool waves of a painted sea, but outside pedestrians felt the surging of another wave, but did not shiver. This high tide of the "hot wave" came shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the thermometer registered 96.4 degrees in the little box on top of the Empire building. The weather man is authority for the statement that it must have been at least 100 degrees down on the street.

When the heat was at its highest "September Morn" was envied by scores and that is not on account of her good looks or shapely figure. All Atlanta had a leaning to the style of garment and "Bobbed hair" but for troublesome police officers and that iron-clad rule called "custom," it is possible that some of the most staid citizens might have bloomers forth as miniature "September Morns."

Hottest in Two Years.

By the end of the day the weather bureau office it was the hottest day in two years and the highest temperature ever came on any 17th of June in Thirty-five years, with the exception of one. To Atlantans who crowded Five Points and hurried up and down Peachtree and Whitehall street the day was only one word to describe it, and that cannot be used except in extremely profane company.

Hot as the weather man was, there was no reports of people or of animals dropping dead on the streets from this excessive heat, although Chicago, New York and scores of other northern cities sent reports of deaths by the score among people and work animals.

One man fell about noon at Marietta and Broad street and was rushed into a nearby drug store. He recovered in short order and friends took him home before the attendants learned his name. The head prescription clerk at the store was asked whether he took his mind as to whether it was the heat or an epileptic fit that caused the man's sudden prostration, but rather declined to say in the latter case.

With all the heated weather the throng on the streets seemed not to mind the weather, although no one lost any time from business on account of the weather, and no one seemed to fear that a sunstroke would result while hurrying up the same leisurely stride that marks the Atlanta man and woman as distinct from many of their southern brothers and sisters.

Slight Breeze Helps.

By 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon a cloud that had formed earlier in the day finally intervened between the sun and earth and caused the thermometer to fall rapidly. A slight breeze with the cloud also freshened up the atmosphere and made it more bearable. The cloud brought no rain, and none is in sight, at least for twenty-four hours, but the weather authorities do not expect any higher temperature for today. "Fair weather" is as far as the government is committed about the heat wave.

In striking contrast to the heat of Tuesday is the fact that but one week previously, or on last Tuesday, the mercury never rose above 56 degrees during the entire day, and the early morning and late evening weather was so cold that scores of Atlantans wore overcoats and practically everybody had on winter suits.

Gilly the Gopher suffered as much from the heat Tuesday as any one else in Atlanta, but Gilly had his own way of cooling himself. He induced Artist Gregg to draw a picture of a man in a bathtub in a real "September Morn" costume on the split log. If it was enough to lower Gilly's temperature for a while. When it began to rise again he solicited the artist and had him draw several big chunks of ice floating around in the tub, and then Gilly stayed cool all the afternoon. According to Gilly, Gregg drew a picture of himself in the tub, but that is left for the eyes of the critical observer.

CRIME INCREASES WITH HOT WEATHER

of May 22. A police suspect, John Kendrick, was held.

An unknown negro was stabbed instantly to death early on the night of May 18 at Peyton and Decatur streets. Elijah Kippey, colored, was arrested and accused of the killing.

Willie Collins, a negro girl, was stabbed to death supposedly by her husband, Charlie Collins, in their home in the rear of 155 Pulliam street on the night of May 7. Collins was arrested.

Isaac Foster, a negro, was shot and killed on May 20 at 126 Auburn avenue by an unknown negro youth. His slayer is still at large.

Will Holmes, a negro, was shot and killed by two unknown negroes on the night of June 2 at Fourth and Jumper streets. His slayers were not captured.

Following which list come the Yancey and Johnson double killings.

Long List of Burglaries.

Sixty-five burglaries have occurred within the space of three months. A majority were in the higher residential districts, and many rich hauls were made. A large number of suspected burglars and porch climbers have been arrested by the police and detectives since the first of May.

A distressing fact displayed by the record, however, is the growing increase of highway robberies. Twenty hold-ups were reported at headquarters, two of which narrowly missed resulting seriously. The last and most daring robbery was perpetrated almost in the heart of the business district, and came near ending in the death of a railway mail clerk.

This latter robbery occurred Monday night when W. S. Ware, a mail clerk on the Southern railway, on the Chattanooga-Atlanta division, was attacked by three negroes as he rounded the curve near fire headquarters on Alabama street, and after being relieved of six registered letters was clubbed viciously across the back of the neck and stabbed in the shoulder.

NOT ONE DOLLAR PAID TO STATE SCHOOLS

$200,000, is actually about $150,000 too small.

That neither Governor Brown nor any of his predecessors are responsible for the financial situation of the state will be easily understood when consideration is taken of the fact that the constitution does not allow the governor to scale a general appropriation bill over to separately any items contained in it.

Governor Not Responsible.

All the governor can do when an appropriation bill is presented to him which he knows will exceed the revenues of the state is to veto the measure as a whole. Then in order that the state might be provided with running expenses at all, he would be compelled to call an extra session of the legislature and a great outlay to the state, and with the chance of getting no more satisfactory measure in the end than the one he has disapproved.

It need hardly be repeated that the treasury condition will make it almost impossible for the general assembly to do something this year to restore the balance between income and outlay. State house officials are not in entire agreement as to what will be the most feasible measure of relief.

Advocate Immediate Reform.

Comptroller General Wright and State Treasurer Du Pree regard immediate tax reform that will brink al, the property in the state to the tax books at something like its fair value as about the only outlet for the situation. This is in line with the recommendations made by Governor Brown in all of his messages to the general assembly. They are hopeful that a measure of fax equalization between the counties and between individuals in the county may be enacted at this session.

Murphey Candler, chairman of the railroad commission, took a prominent part in proposed tax reform when he was a member of the house some years ago, is also in favor of equalization of taxes, but he believes that the subject is too large to be handled at a single session of the legislature. He advocates the creation of a tax commission which will be composed of prominent citizens with the comptroller and the attorney general as ex-officio members, the others to be appointed by the governor. This commission should thresh out the situation thoroughly during the recess of the legislature and have a bill ready to report next year.

Would Issue Bonds.

As an immediate measure in relief to the schools, Representative Smith, of Britain advocates an issue of bonds which would, of course, necessitate an amendment of the constitution. When interviewed on the subject he said Tuesday:

"The proposal to issue bonds met with opposition in the house last year. It should not be laid aside, however, without further consideration. The state of Pennsylvania in 1912 issued bonds to the amount of ten million dollars for school purposes. One twentieth of this amount for this state would enable us to pay our teachers without delay. Inasmuch as every generation receiving the benefit would have, in a large measure, the cost to bear. In my opinion, prompt payment would not only be more reasonable for the state, but would be worth more to the educational system than an extra appropriation of two-five or a hundred thousand dollars."

Prior to the last general assembly, the annual appropriation for schools had been for two years $2,500,000. The general appropriation act of 1911 added $100,000 to this sum to be distributed between the years 1912 and 1913, the whole to be carried over to this year, however, if there were insufficient funds to pay it last year. It is hardly necessary to add that it was carried over, that, is that while the appropriation for this year and last were $2,500,000 each, only $2,500,000 was paid last year.

Solons Might Go Lacking.

In discussing the means which the governor might use in order to force a legislature in order to arouse members to a serious consideration of the situation, a prominent state house official said Tuesday:

"If I were governor, I would pay out all appropriations in the order in which the demands were made, and as long as there was money in the treasury with which to pay them. Then when members of the legislature arrived here in the summer they would find no money in the state's exchequer for themselves or for the state and that they would get busy then and provide a way out of the embarrassing situation."

The real difficulty about this method is that there are some of the state's institutions that may not be closed down, such are the asylums for the insane at Milledgeville, and the blind academy at Macon. These institutions must be provided for at all hazards. There are other institutions however, where pressure for money is of almost the same peremptory character. The result is that the school fund is always the one that is crimped and the payment of it delayed.

Discussing the difficulty that always arises in connection with any measure of reform in the tax system, a member of the house from Fulton county said:

"When we passed the constitutional amendment limiting the tax rate to 5 mills, we created, as it were, a closed pot, for a share in which there would be a grab game, at the end of every session of the legislature. Members knew that no matter how large the appropriations made, that the 5 mills could be added to the burden of taxation upon their constituents. Just so they got the appropriation through for the particular enterprise in which they were interested, they were willing to take their chances of getting it in the division of the pot.

"Of course, under any such system the strong institutions with men of influence behind them have every advantage. That is the weak that suffer. It was different when we could hold down appropriations, by showing the advocates of big increases that the sums they demanded would necessitate an increase in the tax rate and the imposition of an additional burden upon their constituents."

ACTION IS POSTPONED ON CASE OF MRS. HAM

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 17.—(Special.)—Owing to the absence of Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the senate failed this afternoon to confirm Mrs. M. W. J. Ham's nomination as postmaster at Gainesville.

Mr. Swanson was chairman of the subcommittee which heard Mrs. Lonergan. and will submit some report on her case before confirmation of her successor is had.

The following Georgia nominations confirmed: Ball Ground, A. J Loveladv, Cornelia, L. F. Maxwell; Toccoa, Hattie E. Gilmer; Crawfordville, Alma Thomas; Milltown, W. E. Bailey; Rochelle, John N. King; Union Point, Joseph Hilliard; Darien, Thos. K. Dunham.

The funeral was preached at the Primitive Baptist church here yesterday afternoon. The interment was in East Side cemetery in Statesboro.

Robert W. Smith.

Robert W. Smith, age 25, died at the residence on Mason and Turner's road at 6:15 o'clock on Tuesday morning. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith. The funeral will be at the Center Hill Baptist church at 10 o'clock this morning, and interment will be at Hollywood.

David T. Yancey.

David T. Yancey, the deputy sheriff, who was stabbed by a negro on Monday, is survived by his wife and eight children. The funeral will be from the Lakewood Heights Baptist church at 11 o'clock this morning. Interment will be at Forrest Park.

Mrs. Florence E. Kamper.

Mrs. Florence E. Kamper, wife of Charles J. Kamper, of the Kamper Grocery company, died yesterday morning at a private sanitarium. Though born in Baltimore, the deceased had lived in Atlanta since her girlhood, and had a large circle of friends. Surviving her are her husband; her mother, Mrs. S. G. Henck, of Baltimore; one brother, Louis Meakin, of Fitzgerald, Ga.; three sons, C. J., Jr., Francis and Louis Kamper, and two daughters, Misses Frances Kreauff and Miss Catherine Kamper. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment will be at West View.

Samuel R. Branch.

Samuel R. Branch, aged 63, died at his residence, 181 West Fair street, yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Christian, of Chicago, and two brothers, who live in Montgomery, Ala.

Mrs. S. J. Crawford.

Mrs. S. J. Crawford, aged 59, died at a private sanitarium Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Patterson's chapel. Interment will be at the Atlanta Park cemetery.

TRYING TO SPANK SON, MOTHER CAUSES FIRE THAT DESTROYS $100,000

Monticello, N. Y., June 17.—Mrs. B. Wolfe, of Ferndale, tried to spank her young son today and in so doing upset an oil stove. In the fire that resulted twelve business houses and three dwellings, including the Wolfe home, were destroyed. The loss will be $100,000. Firemen from three towns finally checked the flames with dynamite.

SOUTHERN DINING CAR SHAKE-UP IS EXPECTED

With the resignation of George L. Best, of Charlotte, N. C., for eight years superintendent of the dining car service of the Southern railway, a general shake-up in the dining car service of the road is expected according to a persistent report in railroad circles in Atlanta yesterday.

The appointment of the permanent head of the dining car department is creating considerable speculation. It is rumored that this berth will go to E. H. Rosecrans, of Atlanta, agent of the Atlanta district of the dining car service.

There is also the rumor that the dining car service department may be abolished and the work formerly handled by this department be placed upon the passenger service department.

The fact that several men have gone from the dining car service of the road to other positions recently lends color to the report.

M. J. Stamps, for seventeen years dining car conductor on Southern trains, Nos. 37 and 38, of the Greensboro and Birmingham lines, has recently taken the position of superintendent of the Capital City Country club, of Atlanta.

O. P. Wood, also a veteran dining car conductor of Nos. 37 and 38, has accepted the appointment of superintendent of the hotels and eating houses of the Panama railroad. This appointment came through Colonel John A. Patterson, recently appointed by President Wilson as superintendent of the government railroad in Panama.

Another rumor to the effect that Mr. Best is considering a position with the Atlantic Coast line to take charge of a dining car service for that road, has behind it the further report that the Pullman company will no longer furnish the dining car service for the Coast line, will give up this service and the road will establish a service of its own.

Owing to the fact that practically all local Southern officials were in Washington Tuesday attending a dinner to President Finley, confirmation or denial of these reports could not be had.

The Southern railway board of directors meets today in New York.

HAM LEWIS SPEAKS AT GEORGIA TODAY

Senator From Illinois Will Deliver Baccalaureate Address--Atlantans Prominent in Exercises on Tuesday.

Athens, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Wednesday will be commencement day at the university of Georgia—the final day of the occasion of this year's concluding exercises. The baccalaureate address will be delivered by Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, whip of the United States senate on the democratic side. Last night he was entertained at a party at the home of Judge Hamilton McWhorter. The senator speeches and the announcement of the long list of prizes and honors will conclude the exercises Wednesday.

Clark Howell, Jr., Wins.

Atlanta was prominent on the program in the university chapel today. Colonel Cam Dorsey delivered the sophomore cup this afternoon and also the other prizes usually awarded on alumni day. At the conclusion of the junior orations the medal was awarded to Ira Funkenstein, of Athens. Clark Howell, Jr., of Atlanta, was the winner of the sophomore cup and T. N. Hendricks, of Nashville, and G. H. Donaldson of Statesboro, were close seconds.

In the freshman debate the Demosthenians won the medals. H. G. Wiley, of Eastanollee; R. W. Wesley, of Edison, and W. H. Sorrells, of Athens, were the sophomore debaters. Phi Kappas who took medals were H. West, Athens; J. E. Hardin, of Gainesville, and Louis Pinkussohn, of Atlanta.

Mr. Dorsey's address, while brief, was a delightful effort and fit the occasion well.

This afternoon the trustees of the university suspended the rules and authorized the conferring of the degree of LL.D. upon Peter W. Meldrim, of Savannah.

Tonight the banquet in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the graduation of the class of 1888 was enjoyed with a dozen members of that class and all the members of the faculty of that year present. Nash Broyles, Arthur Heyman and O. S. Davis were here from Atlanta.

The trustees of the University of Georgia Tuesday morning held only a short session, giving way to the Alumni society's annual session and then to the annual oration before the alumni and the following luncheon, but the short session was productive of interesting and important results.

A bureau of publicity and the alumni bureau a combined function, was authorized by the trustees to keep record of and keep in touch with all the former students of the institution and in form them of the work the college is doing, enlisting their co-operation. The new department will begin work the first of July and will be furnished an office, a man to handle the work and a stenographer.

By action of the board this morning the degree of doctor of laws will be conferred tomorrow morning upon Prof. Virginia Morris, dean of the law school of the university. The degree of doctor of divinity will be conferred upon the Rev. W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon. The degree of literary doctor will be conferred upon Prof. S. S. Wallace, of the Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta.

No action was taken on the establishment of a school of journalism, and it is probable that no action will be taken at this session on this matter. The final session of the trustees will be a very brief sitting Wednesday morning before the graduation exercises.

Routine Business.

Judge Adams, reporting for the laws and discipline committee, recommended the election of an adjunct professor of physics—and if the extra professorship can be financed the board will adopt the report.

Dr. R. G. Wilson was advanced from adjunct professor to associate professor of pharmacy.

Professors W. J. Payne, of the history department and Professor S. M. Sayler of the English department, were granted leave of absence for the year 1913-14; Dr. T. J. Wooter, dean of the school of education, was granted leave of absence for the next year, 1914-15.

The use of the alumni hall—the new building which contains the gymnasium and is also the Y. M. C. A. hall of the university—for the dances of the seasons was denied.

The recommendation that the annual sophomore declamation contest be discontinued was disapproved.

If it is possible to finance it the board will furnish an assistant professor in the law school.

President J. J. Connor, of the board trustees of the State College of Agriculture, read his report, showing great work accomplished in the year and indicating the pressing needs of that college.

The matter of opening the Compton woods, property of the university, to the public of Athens as a park, was opposed by the state college of agriculture and the board declined to go against their wishes.

The committee on the location of the site of the proposed new law building reported in favor of the corner lot, Broad and Lumpkin streets.

When Governor of Georgia Has to Play Second Fiddle To High Sheriff of Clarke

Athens, Ga., June 17.—(Special)—The governor of Georgia is a pretty high official. As Georgia is the greatest state in the American Union, he outranks all other governors. He is the chief mogul when it comes to approving legislative bills, drawing warrants on the treasury, issuing pardons, making appointments and other important actions. In fact, it would be a hard task to set out to find a more important or a more distinguished official.

But there is one day in each year when the governor of Georgia has to take a back seat; when he has to play second fiddle to a subordinate official on a most important and most impressive occasion, and this has been the case for more than one hundred years and will be the case when all who are now living have joined the great majority and long after their bodies have blended with the dust of their native hills.

The official who annually shoves the governor of Georgia out of the limelight is the high sheriff of Clarke county, and, as said before, he has been doing that stunt for more than a century. Governor Brown is not the only governor who has played second fiddle to the high sheriff of Clarke. Governor Hoke Smith once did the same thing, and Governors Terrell, Candler, Atkinson, Northen, Gordon, McDaniel, Boynton, Stephens, Colquitt and scores of others back of them did the same thing.

Leads Collegiate Procession.

It all comes about through an old English custom, under which the high sheriff was wont to head the collegiate procession on the day of graduation. This old custom has been observed by the University of Georgia since its first graduation exercises more than one hundred years ago. As the University of Georgia is the oldest of all the state universities in the United States, it is readily seen that this custom is hoary with age.

On commencement day the procession is formed beneath the classic shades of the old campus, and it is always an impressive scene. At the head stands the high sheriff, in all his glory, his red sash draped around his imposing figure and his shining sword drawn as an emblem of supreme authority. Behind him stand the governor of Georgia and the president of the board of trustees, and then comes trustees, the members of the faculty and the members of the graduating classes. The movement of this procession to the chapel always presents the most impressive scene of commencement. On the chapel stage the high sheriff is accorded the seat of honor in front and remains there throughout the exercises. There is in this custom the homage paid to the law of the land, the lesson given to the young men who are being ushered from the class room of the university into the great world of business activity, that above all else civil duties rank the first one—obedience to and respect for law.

The majority of the alumni now living recall only two faces in this connection—the face of John W. Nier, for a quarter of a century sheriff of Clarke county, and that of Walter E. Jackson, the present sheriff, although the alumni will recall Sheriff Browning and his predecessors.

Sheriff Nier was a typical sheriff in appearance. His form alone was sufficient to impress the lesson of the law's majesty. He stood six feet three inches and weighed three hundred and fifty pounds. At the head of the annual commencement procession he was always a most striking figure, and after he became a republican as sheriff save one, witnessed him at his post of duty.

The one year that he missed was marked by a most amusing incident, an occurrence that will never be forgotten.

The procession was forming and the hour had arrived for it to move forward to the chapel. The trustees stupidly became aware of the fact that Sheriff Wier had not put in his appearance. There was at once a display of uneasiness on the part of the older members of the board, who could not bring themselves to the point of giving up this time-honored custom.

A message came from Sheriff Wier that he had been taken suddenly ill and that he could not possibly be present. Then there was consternation. Some wished to go on without a sheriff, but others insisted on a substitute.

Judge Howell Cobb, a member of the board of trustees and also judge of the city court of Athens, was among those who insisted on having a substitute. He solved the problem at once.

Bailiff Played Part.

Calling a young man to his side, he said: "Go out in town, find Abe Gibson, my court bailiff, tell him to borrow a sash and sword and report to me at once."

The message was delivered to Bailiff Gibson, who as once refused to obey. "I'm not going there," said the bailiff. "I'm not going to be made a fool of. I'm not fixed up for this kind of thing and haven't time to fix up, either. You can tell Judge Cobb I'm not coming."

And in truth Bailiff Gibson was not fixed up for the occasion. He had just returned through the country from Danielsville, some sixteen miles distance from Athens. The weather was hot and the roads dusty. He had traveled with as few and as light garments as possible and they were not very presentable at the end of the journey. He was wearing a yellow seersucker coat, drawn up in the back; his campaign hat was a half inche deep in red dust; his shirt showed the signs of profuse perspiration; he hadn't had time to put on a clean collar; his shoes were dust-covered and a stubby growth of beard covered his travel-stained face. No wonder he flatly refused the order of Judge Cobb to report immediately.

"If Judge Cobb will give me a half hour, I'll come, but not before," was his ultimatum.

But the ultimatum didn't go with Judge Cobb. The judge stepped across the street himself, collared the unwilling bailiff and brought him over on the campus. The air resounded with protestations, but they were of no avail. The procession had to move right then and it couldn't start without a sheriff.

A sash and sword was borrowed from Colonel Snelling, and Bailiff Gibson was soon in fine shape. Resigned to his fate, he took his position at the head of the procession and marched to the chapel. No soldier ever stormed a battery of guns with more bravery than was shown by Abe Gibson, as he planted on to the chapel stage in full view of the culture and refinement of Georgia's classic city. It was a pretty severe punishment thus inflicted on a vender-hater as a man as Judge Cobb was, but the unbroken custom had to be upheld and Abe Gibson was the only man available to do the upholding. Abe was full of wrath for the time being, but he soon got over that feeling and joined with his friends heartily in the joke that were cracked at his expense. As soon as he got a chance, Abe slipped off the stage, hid the sash and sword in a ventilation hole back of the chapel building, and went off down town to attend to business.

Sheriff Walter E. Jackson, who will head the procession Wednesday morning, on the occasion of the closing exercises of the one hundred and thirteenth session of the University of Georgia, is one of the most popular sheriffs in Georgia, a man of splendid appearance, great bravery and high efficiency.

BISHOP HOSS OBJECTS TO CARNEGIE MILLION

Southern Methodist Bishops to Consider Gift to Vanderbilt University.

Nashville, Tenn., June 17.—Bishop E. E. Hoss, of the Southern Methodist church, is here today, coming to attend a meeting of the College of Bishops to be held Friday and taking action on the protest of four members of the board of trust of Vanderbilt university over the acceptance of the million dollar gift of Andrew Carnegie to the medical department. Bishop Hoss was a prominent figure on the church side in the controversy between the College of Bishops and the university board of trust over the control of Vanderbilt. It is understood the protest was over the provision of the donation for a separate governing board for the department.

At this morning's meeting of the Vanderbilt university board of trust the full membership of the governing board of the medical department provided for in Andrew Carnegie's gift of a million dollars to the department was announced as follows:

To serve till 1915, Rev. J. H. Kirkland, Nashville, chairman; Whitefoord R. Cole, Nashville; Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, New York, president of the Carnegie foundation.

To serve till 1919, Dr. Edwin O. Jordan, professor of bacteriology, University of Chicago medical department.

To serve till 1917, Dr. William H. Howell, dean of the medical department, Johns Hopkins university; Joseph E. Washington, Wessington, Tenn.; John W. Thomas, Nashville, president of Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway.

Bradford Knapp, in charge of the government's farm demonstration, was elected a member of the board of trust, vice G. W. Martin, deceased.

EAGLES WELCOMED TO JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville, Fla., June 17.—The southeastern district convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles opened here this morning for a three days' session. More than 3,000 delegates and visitors are present. The Eagles were welcomed to the city by Mayor Jordan and at once got down to business. A trip through the orange groves along the St. Johns river will be taken tomorrow.

TWO NEW WITNESSES SOUGHT BY OFFICERS

Former Girl Employee and a Machanic May Testify Against Frank.

Two new witnesses may be used by the state in the prosecution of Leo Frank when his trial is held on June 30. Chief Lanford is investigating the reported statement of a young girl living near Roswell and of a mechanic who resides near East Point.

The former, a lass of 17, is said to have been employed in the pencil factory two years ago. For the past year or more she has been living with her parents at their home just outside Roswell. The nature of the statements she is alleged to have made is being kept secret by the detectives. It is hinted, however, that in case she is placed on the stand, her testimony will deal with the character of the superintendent.

The testimony of the East Point mechanic is said to relate to the girl's story, and even if he is used by the prosecution, his testimony will be for the purpose of corroborating that of the girl.

The departure of Attorney Frank A. Hooper, who has been associated with Solicitor General Dorsey in the prosecution of the Phagan case, adds interest to the mystery. Mr. Hooper, it is said at his home, has gone to Indianapolis. His family declare his trip has no connection whatever with the Phagan case.

Solicitor Dorsey announced before leaving that he was going to Atlantic City to spend several days' vacation. He said that he would have nothing to do with the Phagan case while away. He left at 2:45 Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Dorsey.

Much speculation has also been created by a trip on which Colonel T. B. Felder embarked Sunday afternoon, less than twenty-four hours after the solicitor's departure. Mr. Felder says he goes to Cincinnati on business entirely foreign with the Phagan investigation or the dictograph charges.

Burglar Sent to Gang.

Perry, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Curley Henry, a negro, was tried in the city court for attempting to enter the dwelling house of H. E. Fulton near Kathleen on the 11th of this month and was sentenced to twelve months in the chaingang, without imposition of a fine. The negro was caught trying to enter the house by tearing holes in the floor of one of the rooms.

FOR GOOD OF SOUTH BIG COMPANY WORKS

W. H. Manss Arrives in Atlanta to Hold Conference With Georgians.

W. H. Manss, vice president and general manager of the Southern Settlement and Development company, with offices in Baltimore, arrived in Atlanta yesterday for the purpose of holding conferences here with prominent Georgians in regard to this important movement.

The object of this organization is to work in every possible way for the good of Dixie. Sixteen southern states are to be included in its membership, and it is planned to equally divide the benefits to be derived from co-operation.

Mr. Manss is just from Florida, where he raised $40,000 for use in this work. In Atlanta he intends to hold conference with Robert Maddox and other prominent citizens to see just what interest Georgia will take in this undertaking.

The company plans to exploit the south over the entire country, to increase its production, to attract here the proper class of immigrants, and to open gulf and Atlantic ports. An especial effort will be made to bring about rotation of crops, the erection of packing houses to care for southern cattle, and the raising of all the various crops that are needed in this section of the country.

The organization of the company will extend even to the counties of the sixteen states. Each state will have a finance committee, and a state chamber of commerce, which will have one representative from each county. Then there will be a central body, representing all the sixteen states. Arrangements will also be made for the employment of experts, who will have the supervision of the entire work in hand.

MACON'S PEANUT STRIKE OFF; EVERYBODY HAPPY

Chief Rescinds Order Against the Venders When Gooberless Bridges Smith Starts Howl.

Macon, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—A dozen or more peanut venders in Macon are happy again. Chief Chapman has lifted his order requiring them to keep on the move, and today they were each on their usual corners dishing out the goobers to whoever wanted them.

When the chief gave his order for the police to keep the peanut venders on the move just like other peddlers the entire kit and caboodle of them went up in the air, and for three or four days Macon was peanutless.

There is one city official who eats two bags of peanuts every day, one bag before dinner and another after supper. He is City Clerk Bridges Smith, and having been mayor for a couple of terms, with prospects of another at an early date, when he makes a howl some one is sure to sit up and take notice. Consequently, when he was unable to get his daily bags of peanuts the howl was forthcoming, and it wasn't long until the peanut venders were told they might resume their operations again without interference from the police.

PRISONER CUTS THROAT IN A PATROL WAGON

Dallas, Texas, June 17.—When bystanders, their attention attracted by a stream of blood flowing from the conveyance, halted a patrol wagon here today, it was found that the prisoner, a man believed to be M. Peyton, of Muskogee, Okla., had slashed his throat with a razor. He died before reaching a hospital.

The man had been arrested in response to a telegram from the prosecuting attorney at Muskogee, who alleged that he was wanted in that city charged with the embezzlement of $1,000.

BARTHOLDT'S "GLOOMS."

Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, has a bad attack of melancholia. At a German day celebration at Johnstown, Pa., recently he told his hearers that the country was in grave danger of being captured by the puritans. The honorable Bartholdt is, of course, filled with the joy of life. He would fain pass on hilarity in carload lots to everyone else. It pains him to see a tear trickling down the wan cheek of the multi-millionaire or disfiguring the plump countenance of a pauper. He is the advance agent of happiness, the cherub of pleasure uncontined. Read his plaint:

> The attempt to further and further restrict our liberties in a puritanic sense is carried on in the garb of a religious movement and the ministers of all churches and the members of all congregations are constantly called upon for support, and for money to maintain lobbies in both the national as well as all state capitals, and these lobbyists are cracking the whip over our lawmakers and urging them to pass more and more restrictive laws—laws which, in their mistaken zeal, they believe will make people good.
> I do not exaggerate when I say that if this movement is not opposed soon, the American people will find themselves wrapped up in a network of "don'ts" which will completely hamper their freedom of action. And, instead of being free even in all matters of personal conduct, they will be slaves fettered by the chains of un-American laws.

Dear brother in the cause there is more fun, clean, healthy fun, to the square inch in America and throughout civilization today than at any time since Adam had a case of "glooms" over that little apple episode. To be sure, we have the blue stockings with us. We have, too, the Pharisee in superabundance. But we don't pay any grievous attention to them, save when we want a hearty laugh. We admit there are lots of religious organizations and sociological and civic and ethical organizations sticking their noses into a good many things in this country. But if you will convince us that the parks, the fresh air funds, the free tuberculosis hospitals, the free public concerts and the social centers in the rural districts aren't doing a mighty work for humanity, we'll come straight into the sob squad.

The great difference, brother of the sorrowful countenance, is that the poor no less than the rich are having a good time. It used to be the reverse. Another difference is that the fun-making of our days is cleaner, more innocent and less brutal than that of yesterday. That helps some. Work yet to be done? Why, bless your soul, yes, a whole lot of it. We've just started. And as to hidebound legislative restrictions, we confess we can't "view with alarm." We never yet knew an American community to long endure regulations or regulators that were usurping or impertinent. Whenever any such interfere with the general wholesome happiness there's always a pair of well-greased skids within easy reaching distance and willing hands to put them where they will do the most good.

WILL PATRONAGE PASS?

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have agreed that they will continue to apply the civil service principle to the consular service. The only exceptions will be those in which it is deemed public policy will be better served by the abrogation rather than the application of the principle.

It is not so chimerical as it seems to hazard a guess that within the next decade or two government positions will be filled to a remarkable extent purely upon a basis of merit. In other words, the "spoils system" as such has been sentenced to extinction. That is shown in the increasing tendency on part of presidents of both parties to put offices under the protection of the civil service. Certain important positions will, and ought to be, always appointive. But it is inevitable that the great bulk of relatively minor posts will be awarded with fitness in view and not merely as a reward for political services of more or less doubtful value.

Such a change would marvelously improve the efficiency with which this government is served. The goal toward which honestly patriotic statesmen want to work is the operation of the plant of the federal government as scientifically as though it were a huge business plant. The spoils system militates against that end. Total abolition of patronage, or a perceptible lessening of it, would save money and leave bedevilled congressmen more free to discharge the national services for which they are paid. Gradually, too, men will develop enough unselfishness to serve party, which means nation, without the mercenary spur of patriotism. That particular species of altruism is not yet available, but one may well be heartened by the undoubted steady progress.

IN "CIVILIZED" AMERICA.

It is time for concern over criminal conditions when a judge whose court deals exclusively with criminality sounds warning. That is why a recent address by Judge Nash R. Broyles should attract attention through Georgia and the south. Judge Broyles undoubtedly has a better opportunity to pass upon criminal conditions than any other man in the state. He spoke of the prevailing lack of respect for law in America, and cited the fact that London, with its 7,000,000 population, had last year only 20 murders, whereas Birmingham, Ala., with only 140,000 people, had 306 murders. Atlanta, with a population of approximately only 175,000, had as many murders, relatively, as Birmingham.

Judge Broyles also furnished an explanation for these wide and dramatic contrasts by showing that whereas in Great Britain and Canada 80 per cent of the murderers are convicted, in the United States only 20 per cent are convicted. Behind this radical difference there are of course a number of reasons. Among the first ones is the superior efficiency of the English courts. America has several times as many tribunals as England, but justice is not nearly so swift and certain. In America there are too many courts. They get in the way of each other. It would be logical to assume that with a multiplicity of tribunals the vindication of law would be commensurately facilitated. The exact opposite seems to be the truth.

In England the law shears straight throughout to a swift, just and accurate conclusion. In America it must combat endless technicalities and precedents that have little value save their age. The result is that instead of insuring justice the courts in America often present the spectacle of thwarting justice. It is right that the accused should have every protection, but in our anxiety to afford this protection we have swayed too far in the other direction—we have given society an undue handicap in its task of apprehending and convicting the criminal.

Another important difference between the English and American administration of law is that in this country we are primarily sensitive to maudlin influences. It is the easiest thing to secure the abridgment of sentences or pardons by means of popular petitions, often signed in ignorance of the crime of the person who is to be the beneficiary. Americans lack, too, that inherent respect for the value of life which characterizes the English, and which operates to brush aside all obstacles between a murderer and his just deserts.

When legislatures and congress are called upon to revise our criminal procedure so as to strike out cumbering technicalities and precedent; when judges and executives steel themselves against hysterical petitions for clemency, and when vermin like the pistol-toter are treated for what they are, barbarians, we shall begin to enjoy in this country a reputation for law and order approaching that of our British cousins.

Little is heard of "the good trusts." Perhaps they are in Brother Bryan's Sunday school, struggling with a change of heart.

Fourth of July poems in the magazines, and newspapers will soon be deluged with them. The poets cannot be induced to contribute to a sane Fourth.

With President Wilson's unfailing razor strop what does Washington want with a weather bureau, anyway?

Even a June thermometer beats some men rising in the world.

"Icebergs coming south." That's good—provided the ice trust doesn't get 'em.

The king of Siam—Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh—has 7,000 wives, but they have not been sentenced to pronounce his name in full.

Vice President Marshall has returned from a tour through the wilds of North Carolina and Kentucky, where there has been a popular impression that "they ain't no sich man as a vice president."

Bryan "too busy to speak?" And some yawning critic will quote: "For this relief much thanks."

Strange that the evicted tenants of the national weather bureau didn't see the cyclone coming.

A lobby that doesn't know it is a lobby should go home and sober up.

Schoolboys and Nature.

(From The Pall Mall Gazette.)

Some posers put by small boys were mentioned by Mrs. Douglas Wilson at the annual meeting in London of the Children's Country Holiday fund. Questions on the part of the children were encouraged, she said, but it was sometimes difficult to answer them. One small boy of 8 propounded the problem, "Why does not a glowworm burn up with the light inside it?" Another asked "Why does a snail make a trace line?" and she thought the difference between a thirsty boy and a sentimental boy could be seen in the questions of two youngsters, one of whom inquired "What bird says 'ginger beer' at the end of his song?" while the other asked for similar information as to the songster which ended his phrases with "Will you, will you kiss me, dear?"

South's Political Shackles Should Be Stricken, Declares Eugene Black

Athens, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Eugene R. Black, of Atlanta, addressing the Alumni Society of the University of Georgia here today made a powerful plea that the south disregard the shackles, prejudices and superstitions of a dead era and enter into its full national inheritance. Mr. Black's address was one of the clearest analyses of industrial, economic and social conditions of the south of the seventies and eighties ever delivered from the university platform. He neglected no single phase of his subject. He paid tribute to the chivalry and the substantial achievement of the ante-bellum south. He indicated clearly the terms of the drastic struggle of reconstruction. He said that fear of the negro problem had been keeping the south politically in bondage and that the negro problem was now dead, so far as political menace is concerned. We have now the powers of wood and drawers of water, he intimated, for the democratic party since the war between the states and had never been given the privilege of nominating a president. He was enthusiastic in his characterization of Woodrow Wilson, but his underlaying motif was that the time had come when southerners should stand forth without political bias or handicap and take as great a part in nominating future presidents as did the west and the east in nominating Wilson.

E. R. Black.

Mr. Black carried his hearers with him from the start, so eloquent and intimate were his references to early college days, and so consecutive the thread of his logic when he reached the political portion of his speech. He said, in part:

Negro Question Demagogic.

> If the economic and industrial problems of the south are her own problems and have been and will be solved in her own way, and if this Bangs-Heflin demagogic negro question is no longer an unsolvable problem, but is a problem that the white man of the south has and can alone solve, then there is no longer any reason why the new south, stimulating the old south, should not take again her place in the nation, as an integral part of the nation, with equal rights in the government of the nation, and make true the words of the immortal Bill which are enshrined: "We are here, we are in the house of our fathers, our brothers are our companions, and we are at home to stay, thank God."
>
> Her rightful place in the nation will never be regained or retained by the south until she stands for what she believes, until she puts principles above party, and national needs and national progress above sectional prejudice.
>
> A solid south is a term not lightly to be discarded, and in standing for right and for principle it need never be broken, but an arbitrary solid south portends an arbitrary solid north, and two separate parties solidly sectional can never make one righteous solid nation.

South Must Assert Itself.

> I am not appealing to the south to leave the democratic party. For more than a generation party has done for the south I honor it. My appeal to the south is that it assert itself. You have broken your own chains. No longer is there reason for you to be the political vassal of the east or the west. By becoming national instead of sectional, for which we will be hard in national councils, and you will take the place held by your fathers for a hundred years. Your only hope is your political independence, not independence of party, but independence of thought and of action. Truckle no longer to your party. Be master of it. Let the nation but once know that the south stands now on principles, and intends to formulate a platform based on those principles and you'll see accorded the south, since the south has the bulk of democratic vote, the right to incorporate the principles in which she believes into the platform of the party she controls and the right to name for the first time in fifty years a son of Texas, or a son of Georgia as the party's national standard bearer, and for the first time the young men of the south will see the south recognized as a potent part of the nation.
>
> What I have said has been said with full knowledge of the present success of the party now in power. So far as that success may vindicate the sagacity of the party I am glad. So far as it may portend prosperity to the nation I rejoice. I highly respect the present chief executive. As a southerner I am proud that he was born in Virginia, and in what I may say as to the south's duty I intend no detraction from his success. I, however, attended the last national convention of the party. I saw a gentleman from Alabama nominated for the high office. I saw him receive only the votes of his own state and her adjoining states, and finally again I saw the east and the west combine, and the south quiescently follow, and I saw a gentleman from New Jersey nominated for president. A gentleman from Indiana nominated for vice president, and the party's platform dictated by a gentleman from Nebraska.
>
> The assertion of her Americanism is the south's duty to the nation. Never was there a time in our history when the conservatism of the south was so needed in our national life.

YOURSELF.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

You are the most interesting, the most helpful, the most harmful, the most inspiring person in the world to Yourself. You are your own best friend and your own worst enemy. Self-dominated, you create your own power of choice—you take what you want and you give away what you do not want.

Get acquainted with Yourself.

It is well to take long walks with Yourself—to get often alone—to think over and to mentally debate over the important affairs of life. Many people are as unacquainted with themselves as they are with the majority of people they meet.

Get acquainted with Yourself.

Get on good terms with Yourself, for you will never have a companion such as Yourself. Of what value can you be to Yourself or to the world if you are constantly bickering with Yourself, debating with Yourself, uselessly criticising or pitying what you are and where you are, while others sweep past you.

Get acquainted with Yourself.

And get Enjoyment out of association with Yourself—not selfish Enjoyment—but the kind of Enjoyment that makes a man glad of his power and ability because of what he is able to do with them for the benefit of other people. Trust Yourself. Be square with Yourself—be loyal to your highest Ideals—and others will want to get acquainted with You.

The World's Mysteries

"FATHER OF OUR NAVY," JONES OR BARRY?

There has been an unusual amount of discussion of recent years as to which of America's famous naval heroes, John Paul Jones or John Barry, is entitled to the term "The Father of the American Navy." For a great many years we were told in our school histories that John Paul Jones was entitled to this honor and in a great measure he has been so recognized by the United States government. But later the friends of John Barry got busy and in a great measure they have taken away considerable of the honor from Jones and have placed Barry upon the pinnacle.

Commodore Barry, it is said, was the first captain appointed and placed in command of the first war vessel to fight under the Continental flag. This was the "Lexington," which was named after the first battle on land in the Revolution. It was Barry who captured in battle the first British war vessel.

Barry was in London when hostilities in this country were begun. In September, 1775, he hastily returned to Philadelphia, arriving home on October 13, the very day congress resolved to fit out two armed cruisers. Barry, at the time, was in command of his own ship, "The Black Prince," the finest and largest of the American commercial fleet sailing from Philadelphia to British ports. Barry at once offered his ship and his services to congress, which tender was accepted.

From that day, October 13, 1775, to the end of his eventful career—his death on September 13, 1803—John Barry was the ranking officer of his ship and squadron, and at no time did he serve under the orders of a senior officer, reporting direct to Washington, congress or the naval authorities—the marine committee. He was the first naval officer that held the rank of commodore in the service of the United States.

Throughout the war Commodore Barry behaved with gallantry, and on the termination of hostilities he was appointed to superintend the building of the frigate "United States," which he was to command. Barry was of great service to this country, and he remained in command of the "United States" till she was laid up.

As to the title of John Paul Jones, he was first commissioned as lieutenant in December, 1775, and was appointed to the "Alfred." It was the picturesqueness of Jones and his gallantry and fearlessness that led to his being so much admired and so much talked about. Both he and Barry are entitled to an equal amount of credit for the work they did for the cause. Jones' fight on the "Bonne Homme Richard," a vessel he named in compliment to Dr. Franklin, with the "Serapis," the English vessel, off the coast of Flamborough Head, has made his name immortal. It was an opportunity to distinguish himself that was never presented to Commodore Barry.

When the "Serapis" surrendered to Jones, her captain, Pearson, said to the Commodore, in a manly manner, "It is painful to deliver up my sword to a man who has fought with a halter around his neck." Jones preserved his temper, and courteously replied, as he received the sword, "Sir, you have fought like a hero; and I make no doubt, but your sovereign will reward you in the most ample manner."

He said right, George III knighted Pearson for the bravery he displayed in this battle, although defeated. When Jones heard of this, he remarked, "Well he deserves it; and if I fall in with him again, I will make a lord of him!"

In contrasting the two naval heroes, without any disparagment to Jones, it is interesting to note the career of the two men to the end. Barry continued in the service until his death. After the conclusion of peace, Jones, restless and longing for action and adventure, accepted the post of rear admiral in the Russian navy, in 1788, and was employed against the Turks in the Black Sea. He soon, however, fell into disfavor with Potemkin, the favorite of Catherine, was granted a leave of absence and was never recalled to service. He was undoubtedly a man of dauntless courage, and of great service to America. But it is a question if individual preference as to who was really the "Father of the American Navy," and if the service of both men are closely drawn it would seem that circumstances largely favored Barry.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON
The Famous Prose Poet

MEMORY TRAINING.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

"Now, there's no use explaining what you have to sell," explained Mrs. Curfew, indignantly. "I'm in no mood to listen to a rigmarole about your patent reversible fly swatters or your world celebrated furniture polish that will cure toothache and restore gray hair to its natural color. I put some bread in the oven half an hour ago and then Mrs. Turpentine called me up on the phone to tell me that the horse doctor has eloped with the second assistant cook, and I was interested I forgot all about my bread, and it was reduced to a crisp. So don't stand here at my door pestering me when I have such trouble on my mind."

"It is when such trouble overwhelms you," said the stranger, "that I come with healing in my wings. It seems almost providential that I should arrive at this juncture.

I am the authorized representative of Professor Spoonbender, whose book on memory training, illustrated with charts and diagrams, I am offering on such terms that you can't afford to be without it. You pay $5 down and $1 a month for seventeen years and this gorgeous book is yours. Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest it, madam, and then you won't forget your bread or anything else."

"I think I see myself paying $5 down and $1 a month for 100 years," retorted Mrs. Curfew. "I wouldn't have your rubbishy book on the place if you gave it for nothing and threw in a setting of goose eggs. My husband bought just such a book of an agent last year, and studied it night after night, until I was tired of seeing him poring over it. He said that when he had mastered its instructions he'd never forget anything any more, and the road to riches would be opened to him. And from the day he began studying that book his memory seemed to depart altogether. It used to be that when I wanted him to bring something from town I could tie a string around his finger and he'd remember it, but after he began training his memory so it would stand without hitching, he couldn't remember anything.

"One evening he came up from the cellar, where he had been reading his book, as I wouldn't allow him to study any such thing in the sitting room, and he stood there by the open transom telling me that it was simply wonderful what that book was doing for him. He could remember conversations he heard when he was three years old, and all the incidents of his past life rose before him like a dream. But the book didn't teach him how to remember that the transom was open just back of him, and presently he banked into that yawning chasm, and went into the cellar head first, and I had to stay at home all next day changing the poultices on his forehead when I had promised to go with Mrs. Spangler to a picnic in the woods.

"That was the way with that memory training system from first to last. It enabled Mr. Curfew to remember what sort of a pinafore he had on when he was seven months old, but he couldn't remember that he oughtn't to sit on the limb of a tree when he was sawing it off, and so I had to go over to and bother the neighbors, asking them to come and carry him into the house, which is a thing I hate to do, as the neighbors have chores of their own to do.

"He was so infatuated with that book that he bored all his friends telling them about it, and how it had renovated his intellectual faculties and made him a new man. One evening when he was sprinkling the lawn Mr. Pumpernickel came along, and Mr. Curfew began telling him what a marvel the book was, but with all his remembering he didn't remember to keep the nozzle of the hose where it should have been, and all at once a jet of dirty water hit Mr. Pumpernickel in the eye, and he picked up a dog that was passing and bit Mr. Curfew with it, and then those two men clinched and rolled around on the grass with the hose squirting water over both of them, until the neighbors pulled them apart. So you must realize, mister, that it's pure impertinence to come here trying to sell a book on memory culture. I want to forget things. I don't want to remember them."

THE SENSITIVE MAN.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

A sensitive man is a man who can be almost fatally injured by a rude word.

In this age of progress a man who is not sensitive as an ax is a more convenient instrument to use. The man with the thick, calloused nature only grins when an opponent is stabbing him with a personal remark. But the sensitive person who is as touchy as a stage lineaneer will go clear through his breast bone, uncouple his ribs and put great, cruel dents in his spine. A sensitive man will bear up in the dentist's chair as bravely as anyone, and will endure chronic morbus for a night-bor's piano without calling out the fire department. But he cannot endure words. Many a careless man has heaved a careless word into an assembly as he would toss a cigar butt into the street and it has fallen upon a sensitive man and has damaged him beyond repair.

The sensitive man not only suffers frightfully from words, but neglects it fatal to him. The lily of the garden does not fade without water as quickly as the sensitive man without attention. The world is full of timid, grief-stricken men who are hunting obscure and closing their holes in which to die, because they have been left off the reception committees or have been passed over in the newspapers or have been given a careless nod instead of a handshake by some friend.

Sensitive men are greatly to be pitied, but what most of them need is a good, earnest kick. They are generally sensitive because they are too passionately devoted to themselves. What you hurt a sensitive man you hurt the dearest thing on earth to him, and the thing for which he has the greatest consideration.

After a sensitive man has thought about himself for thirty-five years he gets so important in his own soul that the whole world seems to spend its time thinking up ways in which to slight him—whereas the world wouldn't take the trouble to do this if it had nothing to do except wait for the millennium. Sensitive men need to have their minds operated upon so that they will work outward.

Postage Stamp Made History.

(From The New York Post.)

A postage stamp which played a part in history is told about by M. Bunau-Varilla in his new book on the Panama canal. The incident occurred when the discussion over the relative merits of the Panama and Nicaragua routes was at its height. Bunau-Varilla had been working vigorously for the Panama route, making use of the two arguments of less cost and immunity from active volcanoes.

One day he recalled that Nicaragua had issued a handsome stamp, showing a volcano in full activity. He at once sent to the dealers in foreign stamps in Washington, and obtained ninety of these stamps, which he forwarded to the ninety senators, along with bits of paper bearing the words: "Postage stamp of the republic of Nicaragua; an official witness of the volcanic activity of Nicaragua."

The catastrophe at St. Pierre took place about this time, to deepen the impression of volcanic danger, and the Panama route was adopted by the narrow margin of four votes.

MAYOR IN CLASH WITH ALDERMAN

Woodward Declares False Alderman Nutting's Intimation He Favored Georgia Railway and Power Co.

A clash between Mayor James G. Woodward and Alderman James R. Nutting, of the sixth ward, was narrowly averted when they faced each other in the committee room adjoining the executive offices in city hall, yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Woodward was evidently still smarting under the attack made on his conduct in the $376,000 crematory deal, by Alderman Nutting while the June sheet was before council for consideration, Monday afternoon. Alderman Nutting, without mentioning any names, intimated that the Georgia Railway and Power company influenced the mayor to oppose the electric generating feature in the contract.

Asks Source of Information.

When the mayor emerged from his office shortly before 4 o'clock, Alderman Nutting was in the committee room with Councilman Albert Thomas. W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee; Alderman I. N. Ragsdale, and several others. Mayor Woodward walked over to Alderman Nutting, glared at him several minutes and those standing near at hand interpreted the mayor to ask:

"I would like to know from whom you got your information that the Georgia Railway and Power company had anything to do with my opposing the electric plant on the crematory."

Alderman Nutting glanced at the mayor in apparent surprise. His first reply was not audible. He repeated that he got his information from two or three persons.

In tones that could be heard outside the corridor, Mayor Woodward declared that the statements were untrue and that those who are responsible for them know that they are untrue.

"I opposed the electric plant in connection with the crematory because I don't believe that it is possible to generate electric current with garbage as a fuel," he continued. "I have made that statement before, and I'll make it again. And I want to say that I brand any such statements now or hereafter as being untrue."

Mayor Reiterates Remarks.

Mayor Woodward shook his finger vigorously in the alderman's face. He reiterated his remarks with such force and emphasis as to alarm those seated about the table. Alderman Nutting did not respond, and the incident was ended.

Alderman Nutting would not comment on his heart-clash with the mayor.

Mayor Woodward, however, bitterly denounced Alderman Nutting's speech attacking his policy. He declared that the charges were false and vicious, and that the authors know it.

"I was opposed by the Georgia Railway and Power company in my last race," Mayor Woodward declared, "and it doesn't seem logical that I would go to any trouble to help the corporation. On the other hand, Alderman Nutting knows that the corporation contributed to the campaign fund of my opponent. If he doesn't know, he ought to, because he was one of the bankers of the campaign and the fund.

I am willing to put the whole business up to President Arkwright. I am sure he will not deny that what I say is true."

Alderman Nutting was one of Aldine Chambers' warmest supporters in his race against Mayor Woodward. The feeling between Alderman Nutting and the mayor dates back to the campaign. The feeling on the part of Alderman Nutting was intensified when Mayor Woodward declined to give him any committee appointments, except a membership on the committee of municipal research.

ELLIS BILL FAVORED BY ECLECTIC DOCTORS

Measure Will Give State Health Board More Power in Dealing With Contagious Diseases.

The Georgia Eclectic Medical association went on record yesterday as favoring the passage of a bill to be introduced at the coming session of the legislature by Colonel C. S. Ellis, of Tift county, which, if passed, will give the state board of health more power in handling contagious diseases, and will tend to improve sanitation in the rural districts.

The last session of the two-day meeting was held Tuesday morning in the Aragon hotel. About three hundred physicians were present, and a very enthusiastic meeting was held.

A paper was read by Dr. John Powell, of Atlanta, on "Care of the Eyes of Infants," which was followed by a paper by Dr. William P. Best, of Indianapolis, Ind., on "Medical Legislation." Dr. Best recommended Georgia for many of its present laws, and urged the passage of the Ellis bill, which will come up in the legislature. Dr. A. G. Fort, of the state board of health, read an interesting paper on "The Bookworm Disease," and Dr. L. S. Wright, of Moreland, Ga., spoke on "Progressive Paralysis," and advocated the serum treatment for such.

The following officers were elected to serve during the coming year: Dr. John Webb, of Griffin, Ga., president; Dr. Dan H. Griffith, of Atlanta, first vice president; Dr. John White, of Atlanta, second vice president; Dr. G. W. Patterson, of Atlanta, secretary; C. M. Adams, of Atlanta, treasurer.

The next session of the association will be held in Atlanta May 1 and 2, 1914.

INEBRIATE ASYLUM FAVORED BY DOCTORS

The proposition of Representative D. C. Pickett, of Terrell, to establish a state asylum for inebriates, is meeting with much serious support from the medical profession. In favor of such an institution Dr. Willis R. Pasley, a well-known local physician, said yesterday:

"More than ever inebriety is coming to be regarded by medical authorities as a disease. In fact, it is a matter of history that habitual drunkenness was recognized as a disease even before insanity was. Everyone knows how in the dark ages of ignorance and superstition, the insane were brutally outraged and misused, our present method of dealing with inebriates by sweating it out of them on the chain gang will, I am sure, in time be regarded as just as barbarous and unscientific as was our forefathers' way of dealing with the insane.

"I am delighted to see that a member of the legislature has the courage and the brains to propose a sane and humane method of handling and curing in cases where cures are possible, the unfortunate victims of this terrible curse. I hope the Pickett bill will be the measure seriously, as it should be taken. Mr. Pickett undoubtedly has the support of the best physicians of the state, and he should receive the unanimous support of both houses.

GOVERNMENT PROBING ASSAULT UPON WARE

George M. Sutton, chief postoffice inspector for the Atlanta division, yesterday detailed members of his force to investigate the affair upon and the robbery of W. A. Ware, railway mail clerk, on the Atlanta-Chattanooga run on the Southern railway Tuesday morning at Adams street, as he was walking to the postoffice to surrender six registered letters.

The inspector reported to the chief inspector that so far they had found no clews to the robbers. Ware's wounds were said by the hospital surgeons to be painful and ugly, but not at all dangerous. He left the hospital yesterday morning, and later submitted a detailed report of the assault to the chief inspector's office.

Tots and Judges Join in Marbles When 2,000 Gather at S. S. Picnic

Two Atlanta Sunday schools—the First Christian and the Second Baptist—joined their ranks at Grant park Tuesday afternoon in one of the most unique and successful picnics ever held in Georgia.

Fully 2,000 people gathered at the park All afternoon they scattered over the green campus in rest and recreation. A baseball game between two picked nines from the young men's classes was the main event of the afternoon, the First Christian winning, 9 to 7. Other games and races of various kinds occupied the afternoon. And as a fitting climax to the day the big picnic dinner brought the entire varied throng together in the pavilion at sunset.

Probably the most interesting feature of the picnic was the way in which the old as well as the young entered into the spirit and enthusiasm of the occasion.

Judges Scramble at Marbles.

"Knuckle down!"

"Hey, judge! Quit yer fudgin'!"

These were among the cries that arose from a group of venerable judges and business men, squatting in an animated circle on the ground, surrounded by a crowd of enthusiastic onlookers, in the game were Judge J. T. Pendleton, Judge Beverly D. Evans, Dr. E. L. Connally, J. M. Hollowell, Walker Johnson and a number of other well-known Georgians. Marbles was the sport of the hour.

Everybody joined in the sport of their choice, however. Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, was in the midst of a rope-skipping contest when an amateur photographer pointed a gun at him and he turned and ran for the ball field. There he was given a job as umpire—for part of the game. Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor of the First Christian, was also very much in evidence, but the nearest he got to real sport was the running of a potato race.

No "Gambling Picnic," This.

The most important development of the occasion, which was contrary to what some expected, was the fact that the two Sunday schools were on an exactly even plane at the picnic. Both schools brought their lunches and combined them on the long tables of the pavilion. It was no "gambling picnic," as it had been heralded by some. While the original plan of the attendance contest that was launched four months ago was to have the picnic be a payment of the loser's forfeit, this feature was abandoned before the contest was half over. The First Christian offered to cancel this contract and to have it a "joint" picnic, which was accepted by the Second Baptist.

The baseball game held the attention of several hundred people during the entire two hours that the game lasted. The Christian battery of the Cheek brothers did splendid work against the Baptist nine. Humphreys and Harrison, the battery for the Baptists, also led good team work.

ATLANTA LIQUOR ACT NOT CONSTITUTIONAL

Supreme Court Holds Railroads Cannot Give Out Information About Shipments.

Denying the validity of Atlanta's ordinance which requires all railroads and express companies to furnish the police department with information regarding liquor shipments, the Georgia supreme court yesterday unanimously held that such a law was in conflict with the interstate commerce act which makes it unlawful for the agent of common carrier to knowingly disclose the contents of any shipment.

Heralded as a decisive victory by the near-beer men and railroad men who opposed the city ordinance, known as the McClelland ordinance at the time of its enactment, the verdict strikes a telling blow at the police department in that it denies them the right to information regarding the location of blind tigers, which under the McClelland act they were authorized to obtain from all common carriers.

Though the Atlanta ordinance was declared void insofar as interstate shipments are concerned, it is still enforceable where shipments are from any point within the state to any Georgia destination.

The supreme court decision came in the test case against O. M. Ezell, an official of the Central of Georgia, who refused to supply Detective T. D. Shaw, of the Atlanta police department, with information to which the police were entitled under the McClelland ordinance. The lower courts sustained the validity of the municipal law, but the supreme court pointed out the conflict between Atlanta's ordinance and the interstate commerce act, and in an opinion written by Chief Justice Fish this point was emphasized, the court holding that the Webb act has no effect on the foreign traffic.

Another case affecting wholesale liquor dealers which was decided by the supreme court on Monday grew out of the arrest of H. H. Morgan, of Brunswick, a dealer in several brands of beer brewed in neighboring states. Refusing to pay the municipal law and the tax law because he refused to pay a $1,000 annual tax for each kind of beer he carried in stock and the supreme court passed favorably upon his appeal after the lower courts had decided against him, holding that a correct interpretation of section five of the general tax act was responsible for his arrest, inasmuch as that act, properly construed, levied a business tax of $1,000 a year upon a particular place of business, which did not imply the right to tax every kind of beer handled in that place of business.

WARREN CLEMENTS GETS ANOTHER LIFE CHANCE

Warren Clements, convicted of murder by the supreme court of Lowndes county, was given a fighting chance for freedom when the state supreme court reversed the lower court because the trial judge failed to outline the law on voluntary manslaughter in his charge to the jury.

The testimony of D. H. Harrell, a witness for the state, was the chief contributing cause which led to the reversal of the lower court. Mr. Harrell testified that he, with several others, including Clements, the convicted man, was in an automobile of E. J. Griffin. Some of the crowd had been drinking and all were in good spirits. After a while the party alighted from the machine temporarily, and as they gathered around the automobile Clements fired a pistol. Neither Clements nor Griffin accused Harrell to be nervy when Griffin accused Clements of shooting to destroy the car.

As the witness Harrell turned his eyes in another direction and he heard Clements deny any intention to shoot into the automobile. As he looked around, he saw both men had drawn their pistols.

The supreme court held that in view of this testimony, the omission by the trial judge to properly charge the jury on the law of voluntary manslaughter necessitated another trial.

GUARANTEE TRUST CASE TO BE DECIDED TODAY

A decision in the receivership suit asked against the Guarantee Trust and Banking company, now on trial before Judge John T. Pendleton, in superior court, is expected today with the conclusion of Argument by Attorney Albert Howell, representing certain of the petitioning stock and bondholders.

The case has been in court for over a month, and the officials of the company have fought each point. Recently, Judge Pendleton ordered a two weeks' delay while an auditor went through the company's books to secure data in regard to a transaction whereby stock of a former concern was transferred to the company's books, and it is believed that the lengthy case will be decided today.

GOVERNOR TO ATTEND W. & A. ROAD MEETING

Prominent Men, Who Are Interested in the Big Problem, Will Be Present.

All sides of the Western and Atlantic problem will be presented at the meeting called by the Atlanta chamber of commerce to be held in Taft hall at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Governor Joe. M. Brown has consented to take part in the discussion, public business permitting, and there are few men in Georgia more familiar with the property than he. Likewise a student of the Western and Atlantic but holding somewhat different views regarding it, former Representative Hooper Alexander, of DeKalb, will be heard from, while the others speakers will be Mr. Hamilton, James R. Gray, of the Journal, and Chairman C. M. Candler, of the state railroad commission.

Widespread interest has been manifested in this meeting, whose only object is to consider and determine whether it would be expedient and advisable to call a state convention of business men to take up the matter and offer suggestions to the legislature as to the future disposition of the property.

The disposition to be made of the Western and Atlantic is a big live question, and it is possibly the most important business question before the state, and a large attendance of the business men of Atlanta is urged at the meeting called by the chamber.

WINDER WORKING HARD TO WIN LEGISLATURE

With all the new county propositions that are being pushed here incident to the opening of the legislature next week, including Warren, Hardeman, Candler, Barrow and others, it is an interesting tribute to the people of Winder that not a single member of the legislature who has so far come to Atlanta to look over the field in advance has expressed an opinion unfavorable to the establishment of Barrow county.

Winder has representatives here on the field to look out for every opportunity that offers itself. Every time a member comes in they go to work to find out just how he stands as to Winder's new county proposal. They are not interested in anything else, and up to date it is interesting to know they haven't found a single new arrival but who has professed friendship for the new county of Barrow and has promised it his support and influence.

Of course, there are many members, in fact, the majority of them, who have not been here yet; but considered solely on a percentage basis, it looks as if Winder's appeal is founded upon her unfortunate location and her many difficulties resultant thereon, are going to bring substantial recognition when the legislature meets.

MARK JOHNSTON SAYS ALLEN WILL WIN OUT

Mark Johnston, the well known insurance man is ardently backing Judge John T. Allen for the presidency of the state senate. He has recently returned from a trip over the state and he does not see where Randolph Anderson has even a "peep in" so far as the race is concerned.

"I have canvassed the situation thoroughly," he said, "and Judge Allen will have 27 without a doubt. I believe he has a good chance of getting half a dozen more and he will be the next president of the senate without fail."

MANY ATLANTA BOYS WILL GO TO CULVER

Fine Summer Will Be Enjoyed at Summer Naval Academy This Year.

By Robert Foreman, Jr.

A large number of Atlanta boys will spend a pleasant and profitable summer at Culver Summer Naval Academy this year. Atlanta will send more representatives this summer than have been to the academy in preceding years, and nearly all the men who were at Culver last year will return. The boys will leave Atlanta on June 30, and are contemplating a fine time on their trip up.

The following fourteen will go: Roff Sims, Jr., R. S. Fleet, Eugene Black, Jr., Orme Campbell, Jr., Lowry Nicholson, William Kiser, Jr., William Ellis, Jr., H. Sommerfield, Wilmer Moore, Jr., Arnold Broyles, Jr., Robert Foreman, Jr., Goodwin Elkin, Frank Owens, Jr., Howell Cobb, Roff Sims, Reginald Fleet, William Kiser and Eugene Black have been at Culver before. The majority of the boys will go into the naval department. William Ellis Jr., winning a scholarship worth $150 as a musician, will be a prominent member of the band. Wilmer Moore, Jr., will enter the cavalry and Lowry Nicholson will go into the Woodcraft department. Charles Coney, of Savannah, will join the Atlanta party, and several other boys from different parts of Georgia will attend the academy.

Atlanta boys have shown good records in studies and athletics at Culver. Last year R. S. Fleet and Roff Sims, both from Atlanta, won the senior tennis doubles and medal and rackets, while Eugene Black received a loving cup for winning the junior tennis singles. Henry W. Brown, who has been at Culver for several years, captured one of the places as runner-up in the senior doubles. R. S. Fleet and William Kiser did good signaling work, and all of these boys received Tuxis emblems, given by the Culver authorities for all-round improvement during the whole summer course. This is the emblem one has to improve decidedly in studies, athletics and aquatic sports.

While the purpose of the Culver Summer Naval Academy is mainly to develop a boy physically, the school also offers good courses for those who wish to study. Lessons are given from 8 to 12 in the morning, also instructions in boxing, fencing, etc. The rest of the day is devoted to other athletics, drills and aquatic sports. Dances are given weekly, and altogether the boys have a great deal of pleasure with just enough work to keep from getting rusty mentally during the summer.

FOOD PEDDLERS EXEMPT FROM THE VENDING TAX

The vending tax law of Georgia received a severe jolt from the state supreme court on Monday in a decision on two Atlanta cases which held that the law did not include peddlers of food products. The two cases were brought by H. Butler and E. J. Latham, two Atlanta venders who resented the payment of a $50 tax before they could peddle their fruits, eggs and butter.

Justices Lumpkin and Hill dissented from the decision which gives the vendor of food stuffs the right to peddle without paying a tax to the state. They held that hucksters had always been considered peddlers, and no "doctrine of construction," which might classify a news boy as a peddler and omit a huckster, could meet their approval. Since the law now includes such articles as soap and jewelry, the majority of the court invoking the "doctrine of construction" held that only similar articles were meant.

Four Bankruptcy Petitions.

Four voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday in United States district court with Fred Beers, deputy clerk. S. Saul, of Atlanta, a clerk, presents a schedule showing liabilities of $35,770.29, with assets of $50. William F. Bragg, Jr., of Atlanta, gives his liabilities at $177.52, without assets. H. Dudley, of Atlanta, a switchman, declares obligations of $299 with $1,900 of assets, insurance policies figuring in the latter. J. White, a printer, giving Atlanta as his home, says he owes $264.26, and that he has assets valued at $100.

Dunaway Visits Brother.

W. H. Dunaway, an Atlanta boy, one of the youngest traveling men coming out of Baltimore into the south, is in the city for a few days visiting his brother, W. H. Dunaway, at his home on Lake avenue, in the eastern part of the city. W. H. Dunaway has been on the road long enough to make for himself an excellent reputation as a salesman. So successful has he been that he makes his stop-offs only in the larger cities from Richmond to New Orleans and on to El Paso.

TIRED EYES

Did you ever take off a tight hat, ill-fitting pair of shoes and slip your feet into a pair of cool, soft slippers? If you have, you know the meaning of genuine relief and solid comfort. That is exactly what a properly fitted pair of glasses will do for weak, tired, wornout eyes. Modern business conditions necessitate long hours of close eyetiring work, and it is not surprising that your eyes give out easily, ache, pain, burn and finally break down. Glasses are the remedy, and the only remedy, unless, of course, you stop using your eyes altogether. Glasses, properly fitted, will strengthen and preserve your eyes and enable you to do your work easily and with comfort. We are equipped to make a thorough and modern examination and will fit the correct lenses in an up-to-date frame or eyeglass mounting, at a very moderate figure. Come in and talk to us about your eyes. If you don't need glasses, after we have made a careful examination, we may be able to give you some good pointers on how to take care of your eyes.

SOCIETY

Hall-Turner.

The wedding of Miss Muriel Hall and Mr. Louis Turner was a beautiful event of last evening at St. Luke's Episcopal church, the ceremony taking place at 9 o'clock.

The chancel was effectively decorated with palms, ferns and a profusion of white sweet peas, and the ceremony was performed by Dr. C. B. Wilmer, assisted by Rev. Stewart Williams, of Macon.

A bridal processional was sung by the vested choir who preceded the bridal party into the church, and the Lohengrin wedding music was sung during the ceremony.

Mrs. Charles Robertson, of Charleston, S. C., was her sister's matron of honor and Miss Fannie Turner, maid of honor. Mr. Loring Raoul was best man, and the ushers were: Mr. Will Brantley, Mr. Harrison Jones, Mr. John Harris, Mr. Chesley Howard, Mr. Harry Robertson and Dr. Joe Lane, of LaGrange.

The bride was charming in her wedding gown of white charmeuse satin. The corsage of which was applied with duchess lace and the skirt was draped in duchess lace. The same lace formed the little cap from which her tulle veil fell, the veil caught with orange blossoms, and her platinum pendant set with diamonds was the gift of the groom. Her flowers were white sweet peas and valley lilies.

The matron of honor wore pink satin charmeuse, with draperies of shadow lace, and the maid of honor wore pink crepe de chine with draperies of pink chiffon and embroidered net. Both carried shower bouquets of pink sweet peas and valley lilies.

The brides mother wore a handsome gown of black lace.

An informal reception to the bridal party was held at the home of the brides mother, Mrs. Lyman Hall, on Third street. The guests were received in the living room where the decorations were all in white and green. Pink roses, sweet peas and ferns decorated the reception room.

Punch was served in the hall by Misses Harriet Haynes and Edith Watts.

After a wedding trip north Mr. and Mrs. Turner will be at home after July 1 at Norwood Hill, LaGrange, Ga.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Lyman Hall, who was president of the Georgia School of Technology, and she is a young woman of the qualities and attainments to hold many friends. Mr. Turner, who is a son of the late Dr. J. H. Turner, has a large acquaintance throughout the state to congratulate him.

Swimming Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Adair entertained delightfully last night at their beautiful home in Druid Hills, the occasion a compliment to Miss Marion Goldsmith and Miss Ruth Stallings. The fifty guests included young people and six or eight young married couples.

A swimming party was enjoyed in the early evening, a large handsome swimming pool forming an attractive feature of the park-like grounds, and last night it was moonlight to unveil the full beauty of the surroundings.

Afterwards a buffet supper was served in the house. The reception rooms had artistic decorations in many colored garden flowers, and in the dining room the table, elegantly appointed, was picturesque in pink, the centerpiece of sweet peas.

Mrs. Adair and Mrs. Robert Greer, receiving with her, wore lingerie gowns.

Mrs. Dobbs Entertains.

A beautiful entertainment yesterday was the afternoon tea given by Mrs. H. H. Dobbs in compliment to her sister, Mrs. H. M. Ross, of Carrollton, who is her guest, and to Mrs. P. M. Hopkins.

The reception rooms had ideal floral decorations in palms, sweet peas and roses, the pink and white blooms prevailing, and the dining room table was a bright picture in yellow, the centerpiece of woodland flowers. Delicious refreshments were served, and the music of an orchestra was an enjoyable incident.

Mrs. Dobbs wore a becoming gown of princess lace over blue satin. Mrs. Hass wore blue silk marquisette over blue satin. Mrs. Hopkins wore white net and lace.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. W. A. Hartman, Mrs. W. B. Dubro, Mrs. W. M. Jenkins, Mrs. W. A. Foster, Mrs. J. M. Wright, Mrs. W. B. Willingham, Mrs. J. E. McEachern, Mrs. Charles Forrest, Mrs. M. M. Davies, Mrs. T. H. Mott, Mrs. Willis Dobbs, Mrs. J. O. Hardwick, Mrs. James Markley, Mrs. F. F. Heitner, Mrs. F. S. Cox, Mrs. A. L. Coffee, Mrs. W. K. Jenkins, Mrs. A. C. Frazier.

To Mrs. Seydel.

Miss Ida May Blount gave a pretty card party yesterday morning in compliment to Mrs. Paul Seydel, of New York.

The guests were Mrs. Kenneth Goode, Miss Margaret Nutting, Mrs. Hamilton Block, Mrs. Benjamin Weaver, Miss Elsie Oliver, Mrs. Ernest Duncan, Miss May Bancker.

The house was gay with garden flowers, and a dainty luncheon was served after the game. The bridge prize was silver slipper buckles.

Patterson-Greene.

The marriage of Miss Annie May Patterson and Mr. Calvin Clay Greene will take place Wednesday evening, June 25, at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Judge and Mrs. John S. Wilkes, in Inman Park. Rev. Charles Daniel will perform the ceremony and the only attendants will be little Misses Julia Patterson, who will be ring bearer, Mary Sue Prim, flower girl, and Flora Bell Reynolds and Mirlam Reynolds Patterson, ribbon bearers. An informal reception will follow the ceremony.

Among the out-of-town guests will be Mrs. J. M. Bonnell, of Oxford; Mrs. L. D. Patterson and Miss Julia Dent Patterson, of Fairfield, Texas; Miss Sarah Mays, of Monticello, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Porter, of Athens; Mr. and Mrs. William D. Winn, of Athens; Mrs. W. T. Wood, Mr. W. C. Wood and Miss Elizabeth Wood, of Macon.

For Miss Dull.

Miss Nell Ballard will entertain at a 42 party Thursday afternoon at her home on North Boulevard, in compliment to Miss Henrietta Dull, a bride-elect.

Alexander-Allen.

Mrs. James H. Alexander has announced the engagement of her daughter, Carrie, to Mr. P. R. Allen, of Asheville, N. C.

The wedding will occur on the evening of the second of July, and will be a quiet home ceremony, witnessed only by relatives and close friends.

For Miss Patterson.

Mr. Raymond Daniel entertained at dinner last evening at the Majestic for Miss Annie May Patterson and Mr. Calvin Clay Greer, whose wedding will take place this month.

Others entertaining for Miss Patterson will be Miss Annie Sue Hell, who will give a bridge party; Miss Lillian Plunn, gives a matinee party next Wednesday afternoon at the Forsyth, and Miss Minnie Lee Hall will entertain at bridge Thursday afternoon for Miss Patterson.

Shields-Chapman.

A pretty wedding yesterday was that of Miss Willie Shields and Mr. Ben Hill Chapman, which took place at noon at the Central Presbyterian church.

Miss May Dodge was maid of honor. Misses Martha Williams and Robena Shaw, bridesmaids. Misses Frances Shields and Idelle Shaw, flower girls. Mr. Edw. S. Hale, best man. Messrs. J. M. Griffin, H. D. Hall, T. E. Bridges and J. Lyon, ushers. Rev. Charles W. Daniel was the minister officiating.

The church was decorated with palms and ferns, and appropriate music was played by Mr. John O'Donnelly, at the organ.

The bride was charming in her travel suit of blue, with hat to match, and her bouquet was of bride roses.

The maid of honor wore pink voile, with picture hat the same color, and the bridesmaids wore white voile gowns and white hats. Their bouquets were sweet peas. The flower girls wore white lingerie dresses and carried baskets of sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left immediately after the wedding for Wrightsville Beach, and returning they will make their home on Olympic avenue, in Decatur.

Musical and Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. George Caldwell Snelr entertained Friday night with a musical and dancing party. The attractive bungalow, where so many novel entertainments have been given, will be converted into a Japanese garden. Miss Mary Carl Hurst, Miss Louise Brudberg and Mrs. G. Willis Smith will serve punch.

Miss Smith's Matinee Party.

Miss Sara E. Smith will be hostess this afternoon at a box party at the Forsyth in honor of Miss Bertha Vaughan, a bride-elect. Mrs. Julia May Fisher, of Anderson, S. C., and Miss Williamette Bradley, of Washington, Ga.

Lee-Manetta.

The wedding of Miss Bernice Lee and Mr. Isadora Manetta was solemnized at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. L. W. Ashford, 45 Garden street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. H. H. Peacock officiating. The wedding party went immediately after the ceremony to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. B. Lee, 14 West Georgia avenue, where they were entertained at a wedding supper. Mrs. Manetta is one of the popular young ladies of the Baptist Tabernacle choir. Mr. and Mrs. Manetta will be at home to their friends at 20 Dodd avenue.

Lawn Party.

A lawn party will be held Thursday evening, June 19, in West End, on the lawn of Mr. C. E. Pollard, corner Holderness and Sells avenue, from 6 p. m. Ice cream and cake will be served. The lemonade booth will be in charge of Mrs. G. O. Jones and H. A. Tripp. A gypsy will fortell fortunes.

Dancing and music will be enjoyed during the evening.

Miss Johnson's Tea.

Miss Laurian Johnson was hostess at a pretty tea yesterday afternoon at her home on Peachtree road, inviting twenty-five friends to meet her guest, Miss Elizabeth Baker, of Macon. Bowls of sweet peas decorated the apartments. The centerpiece of the tea table in the dining room was a plateau of feverfew, and all details of the artistic table were in white and green. Miss Johnson wore a dainty gown of white marquisette, embroidered in lavender, and Miss Baker was gowned in pink silk voile, trimmed in shadow lace.

Miss Carrie Lou Born and Miss Leland Hughlett served punch.

Miss Little's Luncheon.

Miss Janet Little entertained at a pretty luncheon yesterday at her home on North Boulevard in compliment to Miss Henrietta Dull, a bride-elect.

The house was attractively decorated with sweet peas, and the centerpiece of the table in the dining room was a plateau of pink and white sweet peas, and all details of the pretty table were in pink and white.

Miss Little wore a gown of white crepe, the coat of blue Dresden silk.

The guests included Miss Henrietta Dull, Miss Antoinette Blackburn, Miss Nell Ballard, Miss Mary Dull, Miss Louise Dull and Mrs. A. A. Little.

Vesper Club Dance.

The Vesper club will give a dance at their club rooms in West End Friday, June 20. All club members cordially invited to attend. The chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Withers, from Tampa, Fla.

Rohl-Young.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Rohl, of Chicago, and Mr. Frederick Young, of Atlanta, took place at 4:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon a week ago at the Catholic Church of the Ascension, Oak Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

The bride was charming in her wedding gown of crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and lillies of the valley. Her only attendent was her sister, Miss Lois Rohl, who was a picture of beauty in white lingerie, wearing a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

An informal dinner at the bride's suburban home followed the ceremony, at which the relatives and intimate friends were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Young arrived in Atlanta Thursday evening and will make their home at 100 Queen street, West End. Miss Annie May Young, a sister of Mr. Young, will entertain in honor of her sister-in-law tomorrow afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock. As Mrs. Young she will be cordially welcomed by her many friends in Atlanta, where she made her home for a short time.

Mrs. Cundell's Bridge.

A pretty compliment to Mrs. Royal Ingersoll, who has been the recipient of many graceful courtesies during her brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harlingen, was the bridge given yesterday by Mrs. Frank Cundell.

In the party were Mrs. Ingersoll, Mrs. Charles Dowman, Jr., Mrs. William Arnaud, Mrs. John Gilmore, Mrs. Burwell Pope, Mrs. William S. Elkin, Mrs. Marshall McKenzie, Mrs. William Candler, Mrs. R. J. Hunt, Mrs. Ivan Allen, Mrs. Tom Weaver, Mrs. Oscar Pappenheimer, Mrs. Frank Orme, Mrs. Mark McCord, Miss Louise Watts, Miss Marguerite Bartholomew and Miss Edna Bartholomew.

Sweet peas and Paul Neyron roses were an effective decoration with ferns in the reception rooms, and in the dining room the tea table centerpiece was a basket of sweet peas, their pink and white color repeated in other pretty detail. The bridge prizes were silk stockings.

Mrs. Cundell was gowned in lavender embroidered crepe over a deeper shade of satin.

Five O'Clock Tea.

Mrs. Frank Meador entertained a few friends at a 5 o'clock tea at the Driving club yesterday.

To Miss Kendrick.

Mrs. Linton C. Hopkins has invited eight ladies for tea at the Driving club this afternoon to meet Miss Kendrick, of Cincinnati, the guest of Mrs. Alex W. Smith.

To Mrs. Ravenel.

Mrs. Edward Peters will entertain at bridge this morning in compliment to Mrs. St. Julian Ravenel, of New York, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Clarke.

To Mrs. Garwood.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sheffield entertained a company of their married friends at an enjoyable "42" party last night, inviting them to meet their guest, Mrs. Lee Garwood, of Rockmart.

The house was decorated with daisies and pessamine and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Sheffield wore gray chiffon, and Mrs. Garwood was gowned in white charmeuse.

Other informal affairs are being given in honor of Mrs. Garwood.

Garden Party.

The Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., will give a delightful garden party on Wednesday, June 25, from 5 to 7 o'clock, on the spacious lawn surrounding the beautiful country home of one of its members, Mrs. John M. Slaton, on Peachtree road. Every member of the chapter and their friends are cordially invited to be present and assist the regent, Mrs. J. O. Wynn, in making it a success. A small admission of 50 cents will be charged, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the chapter.

FAULKNER-STOCKTON.

Thomson, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—A marriage of interest to many here was that of Miss Carrie Belle Faulkner, of Augusta, and Mr. R. M. Stockton, of Thomson, which took place last Sunday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Faulkner, of Augusta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. D. Echols, of Augusta, pastor of Ashbury M. E. church.

Try Skin Absorption Instead of Cosmetics

(From the Woman Militant.)

The constant use of rouge and powder invites a coarsened, roughened condition of the skin, eruptions, enlarged pores and wrinkles. If you've learned this from experience, suppose you quit cosmetics and try what I recommend.

Ask your druggist for an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax and begin using this tonight. Apply like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. Keep this up for a week or two. The wax will literally absorb the coarse, colorless or blemished top skin, but so gradually as not to discommode you at all. Just as gradually the clear, velvety, naturally-tinted underskin comes to the surface. And mercolized wax becomes your everlasting friend. For those wrinkles and large pores, make a face bath by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in half a pint witch hazel. This has remarkable astringent and tonic properties, and beneficial results come quickly.

ACCIDENT DUE TO A CUSPIDOR

Mother of Young Baby Stumbles and Falls—Serious Complications Set In.

Duffield, Va.—In advices from this place, Mrs. J. L. Johnson says: "When my baby was about a month old, I stumbled and fell over a cuspidor, and contracted such pains in my back, I could not stoop over without falling to the floor.

I got terribly weak, and was very uneasy about myself.

My case was certainly a serious one I was so delicate that most people thought I was going to have consumption, and I thought so myself.

Finally my husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I tried it, and am confident that it saved my life.

The pains in my side and back have disappeared, and all of my friends here say that I am looking better than I have done for a long time.

I recommend Cardui to all of my lady friends, as I believe it will help them, just as it did me, if they will only give it a trial.

You may use this letter in any way you wish. I feel so grateful, for if it had not been for Cardui, the woman's tonic, I believe I would by this time have been in my grave."

Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you, as it did Mrs. Johnson.

ATLANTA SCOTS WILL HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC AT THE BURNS CLUB

Over the seas and a thousand miles awa' will the bra' Scots of Atlanta gang on the fourth o' July next, at which time the Atlanta Scottish association will hold its second annual picnic at the Burns club grounds.

The swaying sedge around under the Georgia pines will become their native heath and the little Burns cottage on that day will not be just "the only replica of the Burns cottage in America," but in the minds of the Scots who celebrate will become the real birthplace of the great bard of Scotia.

The picnic will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and last until "the gloaming." The afternoon will be celebrated in true Scotch style with native songs and games.

Heads of families will be expected to bring baskets, and it may be banked on that these expectations will be materially enhanced by the contents of the baskets.

The invitations have just been issued. On one leaf is printed the original poem by Harry Lauder, which he recited for the benefit of the Atlanta Scots at the Burns club last winter. He recently mailed an autographed copy to Arthur A. Craig, of West End, a boyhood playmate of his, in Musselboro, Scotland. The poem is as follows:

ODE TO SCOTLAND.

Auld Scotland, I adore ye,
Aye, I love ye, 'cause ye bore me;
I love yer fame,
I love yer name,
I love ye 'cause ye are my "Hame."

Yer name's engraved on history's pages,
And growing brighter as the ages
Land that since wi' steeped in "Red,"
Land where "Father," "Brither" bled.
Land where Covenanters lie
With na a toom stane but the sky;
Land o' the martyred dead,
The glen that raised our Highland men.

Our best blood's had to cross the sea,
Where aft the saut tear dims the e'e,
Ainsel is nae mair, but it's no the same,
There's no anither place like "hame."

HERMAN C. SHUPTRINE ELECTED IN CHATHAM OVER JOHN J. BOUHAN

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—(Special)—Herman C. Shuptrine will represent Chatham county in the general assembly to take the place of Colonel Pleasant A. Stovall, who resigned because he is going to Switzerland as minister.

The vote in yesterday's primary was consolidated today and Mr. Shuptrine declared the democratic nominee in next Tuesday's election. Mr. Shuptrine received 2,412 votes.

His opponent, John J. Bouhan, a young lawyer, received 1,650 votes.

WOULD STANDARDIZE GRADING OF COTTON

O. T. Gower, of Crisp, Author of Bill to Prevent Swindling by the Buyer.

In order to prevent the further swindling of farmers by false grading of cotton Representative O. T. Gower, of Crisp, has prepared a bill for introduction into the legislature this year for standardizing the grade and classification of the fleecy staple.

In addition to this, the measure will provide for a board of arbitration to settle disputes arising between buyer and seller as to the classification and grading of cotton, and will make it obligatory upon the purchaser of cotton to specify the class of cotton, whether American or Liverpool, and to designate the classification at the time it is bought. Mr. Gower says that he hopes by this measure to stop cotton sharks from defrauding the producers on grading.

What J. J. Brown Says.

Asked as to his opinion of the merits of the bill, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown said Tuesday:

"The bill is undoubtedly along the right line. Not having the full details of it before me, I am unable to determine whether or not the enforcement of such a measure would be practicable, particularly in small towns. Of course it would require all buyers of cotton to be experts at grading. I do not know whether it would be quite fair to require this of the buyers only in villages and country communities.

"It is true that our farmers have lost and are losing much from the fraudulent grading and classification of cotton. Their losses on this score run far into the thousands of dollars annually. I believe that a measure can be devised to check the evil and I hope the legislature will give it attention."

Special Picnic Train Goes to Powder Springs With 500 Presbyterians

Young and old, the members of the Central Presbyterian Sunday school are looking forward to the all-day picnic excursion they are planning to take on Thursday. A special train will carry them to Powder Springs, Ga., where at the well-known picnic grounds they have made all arrangements for a day of fun and rest and forgetfulness of the city's work and heat.

The special train will leave the Terminal station at 9:30 o'clock, the trip taking an hour or an hour and a half. Returning, the train will leave the picnic grounds at 4:30 o'clock and will reach Atlanta at 5:30 or 6 o'clock. Tickets are being furnished free to all the members of the kindergarten, primary and intermediate departments of the Central Presbyterian Sunday school, while the adults are paying 25 cents each for the round trip tickets. Every family is expected to provide a picnic lunch basket.

WOMAN RECOVERS FROM MERCURY POISONING

Thomasville, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. George King, who two weeks ago took three tablets of bichloride of mercury containing seven and a half grains each, has so far recovered as to be discharged from the hospital. At the time the woman took the poison it was thought that it would be impossible for her to get over the effects of it, but she has done so to such an extent that the attending physician has pronounced her out of danger.

A reconciliation has been effected with her husband and she left the hospital with him. It is said since she attempted to commit suicide last year at Bainbridge by taking laudanum and recovered, as it looks as if she might be something of an immune when it comes to poisons.

Knights Hold Banquet.

Cordele, Ga., June 17.—The Cordele lodge, No. 44, Knights of Pythias, held their annual banquet last night at the Suwanee hotel with a large number of the membership and a good number of outside friends present, including several ladies. Speeches were made by the officers of the lodge and others. Reports showed a splendid increase in members.

May Get Hero Medal.

Cordele, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—For saving the life of Miss Madeline Owens, an attractive young lady of Vienna, when he rescued her from a watery grave in the Flint river, J. H. Smith, an employee of the A. B. & A. railway in the local freight office, will probably be rewarded with a hero's medal. A representative of Mr. Andrew Carnegie has been in the city several days investigating Mr. Smith's act of heroism, and it is understood that he has recommended that the young man be awarded a medal.

$6,000,000 BONDING CAPACITY FOR CITY

Auditor C. J. Metz Reports Atlanta's Finances Are in Splendid Shape.

The bonding capacity of the city is approximately $6,000,000, according to the report of C. J. Metz, auditor appointed by the finance committee with authority from council to make an inspection of the city's books for the years 1910 1911 and 1912.

The report comments favorably on the financial condition of the city and the methods of bookkeeping. Auditor Metz takes occasion to highly commend Comptroller Goldsmith and urges the addition of a purchasing agent and paymaster.

The auditor touches on the matter of consolidating the city and county departments as was urged in the report of Expert Herbert Sands, who was employed by the chamber of commerce to make a survey of the municipal needs of Atlanta.

Changes Are Urged.

Some of the most important changes advised in the report are: Simplifying methods in the comptroller's department; abolish keeping small accounts for lights, telephones, etc., and require each department to keep its account separate from the comptroller's records, and an up-to-date map of the city for the tax office.

Discontinuance of the practice of accepting personal bonds by the city for its bank deposits is strongly urged. The report says that the books of the city treasurer's office are well kept and the accounts in fine condition. Changes are urged in the methods of keeping accounts in the marshal's office. The books of the police department are well kept.

Attention is called in the report to the difference in cost in forage in the fire department and the sanitary department. The former feeds its stock for about 27 cents per head, while the latter costs $18. The same criticism is made of the construction department.

Financial Statement.

The following financial statement is tabulated in the report:

Assets.

Current assets	$ 403,561.00
Special assessments	484,859.27
Trust fund	53,000.00
Sinking fund	1,189,500.00

CORN CROP IS GREAT, DECLARES J. J. BROWN

Everybody Cheerful and Conditions Much Better Than a Month Ago.

"The corn crop is the finest I have ever seen," said J. J. Borwn, assistant commissioner of agriculture, who has just returned from a trip through south Georgia, where he made a thorough inspection of crop conditions.

"The corn acreage is as large or larger than in previous years, and I have seen no place where the crop has suffered from loss of rain. Our corn output will be above the average, but I don't see how the state of Georgia can produce a full cotton crop.

"Throughout the state every one seems to be cheerful, and sanitary conditions look far better than they did last month when on our trip through the state we noticed considerable suffering because of insufficient rain."

TO BOOST HIGHWAY ELLIJAY WILL GIVE MONSTER BARBECUE

Ellijay, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—For the purpose of boosting a great automobile highway from Atlanta to Murphy, N. C., by way of Jasper, Ellijay and Blue Ridge, a monster barbecue will be held at Ellijay on the Fourth of July. This action was determined upon at a large mass meeting held here last night, at which the following resolutions were passed:

"Whereas, The citizens of Ellijay and Gilmer county, being fully alive to the great commercial, social and industrial advantages of good roads; and

"Whereas, A mass meeting of citizens assembled for the purpose of giving impetus to a movement for the establishment of a great automobile highway from Atlanta to Murphy, N. C., via Jasper, Ellijay and Blue Ridge; and

"Resolved, By the citizens in mass meeting assembled, that we hold a barbecue on the Fourth of July, 1913, the object of which will be the inauguration of said project.

"Resolved, That we cordially invite the citizens of the counties of Pickens and Fannin to co-operate with us to this end, and that we also invite the assistance of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Murphy, N. C. Board of Trade.

"Resolved, That we empower the chairman of this meeting to appoint suitable committees to look after the various details of said barbecue and invite speakers for the occasion.

"Resolved, That we earnestly invite all the citizens of the counties along the proposed highway to co-operate with us in every legitimate way looking to the success of this enterprise.

"Resolved, That we furnish copies of these resolutions, with request to publish, to The Atlanta Constitution, The Atlanta Georgian, The Atlanta Journal, The Cherokee Advance, The Pickens County Progress, The Ellijay Courier, Ellijay Times, Blue Ridge Summit, Blue Ridge Post and Cherokee (N. C.) Scout.

SAYS SOUTH IS CORN BELT OF THE COUNTRY

Gov. Brown Boosts Boys' Clubs. Tells Why Bread Eaten in Dixie.

"The reason that southern folks like corn bread, while our Yankee friends do not, is because southern corn is better corn and makes better bread than that which is grown in the north," said Governor Joseph M. Brown, in a long distance telephone interview from Athens with secretary Cooper, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

Governor Brown had read Secretary Cooper's announcement that work was already under way six months in advance to make the 1913 Georgia corn show the largest and most successful in the state's history, and expressed his enthusiastic endorsement of the movement.

"These corn clubs have shown conclusively," said Governor Brown, "that our section of the country is the real corn belt of America. Iowa and the great middle western corn states have never produced 200 bushels to the acre. Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama, all have produced 200 bushels and more.

"We have many natural advantages over the northern and western corn growing states. We have a month longer in the spring and a month longer in the fall. We cannot only grow more corn to the acre, but a much finer grade of corn. I have been convinced for many years that this is why corn bread is so popular in the south and why it is not generally liked in the north.

"I think the boys' corn club movement is the greatest influence that has ever been put under way for the agricultural progress of Georgia. I agree with Mr. Cooper that we ought to double the work of the corn clubs, and I expect to see a material increase in the membership this year. It is a movement that all Georgia's people should actively support."

Governor Brown's interview is interesting, not only because he is governor, but because he knows what he is talking about. On his Cherokee farm, he raised 145 bushels to the acre in 1911. In 1912 he raised 158, and this year he expects to raise 200 bushels.

EARLY CURE PREDICTED FOR WHOOPING COUGH

Paris, June 17.—Discovery in the near future of a cure for whooping cough was predicted today at the Academy of Sciences by Dr. Emile Roux, of the Pasteur institute. Dr. Roux was merely transmitting the report of Dr. Alfred Conor, bacteriologist, of the Belvedere Military hospital, Tunis, where, with the collaboration of Dr. Nicholls, he had prepared a solution containing living experiments thus far were on too whooping cough bacilli, which they injected into 122 children suffering from the disease, repeating it every two days. Thirty-seven per cent. of the children recovered in less than three weeks, whereas under ordinary treatment the mildest attack lasted two months.

Dr. Roux, while declaring that the small a scale to make a definite pronouncement, said he believed an effective cure was in sight.

IN USE OF PARCEL POST CHICAGO IS LEADING

Washington, June 17.—Revenue receipts from the sale of parcel post stamps during the first three months of the operation of the system totalled $7,076,517, according to figures computed at the postoffice department. During that period approximately 150,000,000 parcel post packages were handled by the postal service. Chicago led all cities both in the number of parcels handled and in the amount of stamps sold, the latter being $1,254,469. New York city's sales for the same period aggregated $818,139.

Bryan Instructing Guthrie.

"We Are as Cool as We Look,"

Pertinently remarks a shrewd advertiser in calling attention to the necessity for making the home comfortable in summer time.

What about your home?

Window shades, floor coverings, lightweight covers for the beds, summer furniture for indoors and outdoors, summer hangings, awnings, cottage china, lamps, and other articles are all in lively demand just now, and often the question flashes into one's mind:

"Where shall I make my purchases?"

The answer is instantly told: "Consult THE CONSTITUTION'S advertising pages. They will tell you almost at a glance where to go and what to buy if your mind is in doubt as to any detail. They will also tell you what is newest."

Cool your home with summery cheerfulness.

Take prompt advantage of the opportunities that the advertisements in the newspapers present to your attention.

De Miracle

The Only Safe Hair Remover

Each application of an unknown depilatory is a dangerous experiment and likely to cause permanent disfigurement. The mere fact that such preparations are short-lived should alone be sufficient warning to avoid their use. De Miracle has stood the test of time, having been sold for over 21 years, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

The Unoffensive Depilatory

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive and an offensive tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Bisland's pinch event in the thirteenth, following Wallop's triple to the scoreboard, made it two straight from the Vols on Tuesday. Final Vol game today.

Crackers Cop in Thirteenth Session

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Deserves Praise.

JOE CONZELMAN deserves a world of credit for the great game twirled yesterday. In the face of horrible support, the big right-hander never faltered an instant. The worse his support got the better he showed in the pinches, and in the thirteenth inning he was pitching better ball than he showed in the start. It looks like the Crackers have uncorked a real find in this fellow, a regular winner.

Short Lived.

GIL PRICE'S leadership of the Southern league hurlers was short lived. He led but for a day, the Big Pole Coveleskie coming through with a victory yesterday over Birmingham, scoring his tenth straight win and his fourteenth victory of the season, with but three defeats. Of the thirty-three games the Lookout's have won this season, Covelesikie and Sommers have won twenty-four between them.

Hitting Hard.

RED SMITH is hammering the ball to all corners of the lot for Brooklyn. Sunday he got two singles, a double and a triple in four times at bat. Monday he got a triple in five times up, while yesterday he got a single, a double and a triple in four times up. Pretty careful slugging that. Of course the Dodgers are winning.

We Wonder.

IN THE STORY printed the other day where an umpire hit Fred Merkle, the Giants' first sacker, on the head with his mask, when he tried to assault him, no mention is made of what happened to the umpire. But after his failure to touch second episode, it would not be surprising if the umps did not have to get a new mask.

The Greatest.

MILBURN, America's back in the recent international polo matches, is receiving flattering notices from the press of England. The correspondents of the London papers hail him as the greatest polo player ever, surpassing the stars of former years as completely as Ty Cobb overshadows the ball players of former years. One expert said of him: "Perfect direction, distance and genuine enthusiasm. I think that Devereux Milburn is the greatest polo player that ever played the game."

Commendable.

THE ACTION of the Chattanooga management in giving Third Baseman Jimmy Gillespie his outright release and paying him his salary for the entire season is one of the fairest acts *that has ever been brought to our at*tention in the annals of baseball. It is a most commendable act, and the stock of the Chattanooga club owners has risen 100 per cent in our estimation as the result.

Beware.

SOMEONE will be pinched by the cops shortly. "Head those Lookouts" Elberfeld has a real ball club in Chattanooga now, but he is going to have an even better one. According to reports from Chattanooga, a more experienced battery is going to take the place of the collegians that are now on the club's roster. With these changes, the Kid will stand pat, and well he should.

Turn Over.

B. H. MOONEY, sporting editor of the Birmingham Ledger, is raving. By way of answer to the boasts and boasts of the local fans and press regarding the capturing of the opening attendance trophy, he stirringly remarks that when it comes to the total daily attendance of the two cities is made, Birmingham is leading easily. If Mr. Mooney has any money to back up such a statement, he can be accommodated to any amount that he might be able to dig up. Now put up or crawl in your hole, Mooney, old boy. Atlanta can draw more paid attendance on a rainy day with the tail-enders playing here than the Barons can with ideal weather, the pennant winners contesting and a double-header attraction. Get off our back, Mooney, old boy, you're dreaming.

In This Connection.

BY WAY of passing, however, Whiffs desires to call the attention of the fans to tomorrow's game at Ponce, which will be attendance presentation day, when the cup won by the Crackers, the opening game of the season, will be presented by President Kavanaugh. Birmingham had 3,207 paid admissions on their pennant-raising day, and it was a double-header. Surely Atlanta fans can beat that mark with a single game. It's up to you, fans.

Lost Its Power.

FLEHARTY'S chief asset, his base ball, is no longer feared by the Southern league batsmen. As there is no smoke behind their delivery any more, the batsman stand up and take the ball and strull down to first grinning.

Wake 'Em Up.

THE CRACKERS are sadly lacking in one respect this season. They need some wide-awake coaching on the lines —a couple of men who can open up with a bunch of noise a la Dubbs. More games would be won by the locals if they could get a couple of live coachers out there in those boxes, stirring up plenty of noise when the men get on bases and keeping after the opposition at all times when the locals are on the attack. The mental part of the present coaching is O. K., but a little more pepper infused into the men on the lines would help immeasurably. It enlivens the game to begin with, and puts the team on its toes in the second place.

The Bad Break.

CLARK GRIFFITH'S Washington Senators are keeping in the race despite the numerous injuries and ailments that have befallen the members of the team since the start of the season. No less than eight of the regular players have been out of the game at odd times since the season started, and it is only today that the full quota of regulars will be presented for the first time in seven weeks. Under such a handicap, the showing of the Senators is, indeed, remarkable. They ought to start a winning streak like this one they pulled last season with their full strength in the field once more.

Smith's Triple, Bisland's Single Win for Locals in Thirteenth; Conzelman Hurled and Hit Well

By Dick Jemison.

The Crackers were returned victorious Tuesday afternoon for the second time during the series, though it took thirteen innings of most hectic battling to subdue to the Nashville allois 7 to 6.

With the shadows of eventide fast settling upon the ball field, Wallop Smith poled one of his famous clouts to the rear board in deep center field for three cushions and cantered home with the winning tally when Rivington Bisland sent one at a mile-a-minute gait past Schwartz.

These two clouts packed the game away in the local locker. No more timely wallops have ever been seen on the local field. Had they not arrived at this particular time, the Vols and the Crackers would be batting in a deadlock after this afternoon instead of a single session, as Umpire Rudderham would no doubt have called it at the end of the thirteenth.

Conzelman "Right."

Joe Conzelman pitched his first full game before a local audience and dickered for his support on special moments. It was all that made it necessary that he go past the regulation nine sessions.

In the face of poor support, the big ex-Brown university star never faltered. He pitched gilt-edged ball at all times. Not even the afternoon sun stole him weaken for even the slightest fraction of a second, and to him goes the lion's share of the credit for the victory.

Conzelman looks better every time he pitches. He has excellent control of the ball at all times, a nice change of pace, good speed, with a drop ball that is as good as any ever shown in this city.

Conzelman gives promises of being one of the leading pitchers of the league. He has confidence in his own ability and after his work Tuesday, in stalling for his life time after time, the team is sure to play behind him in the future with balss of confidence. They know that he has the goods there and they are sure to accord him excellent support hereafter.

But his pitching was not the only bright feature. Three times he connected safely, once to each field, one of his pokes driving in two runs. Two of them were Texas leaguers, but they count just as much in the averages as the others.

Bisland Busy.

Rivington Bisland acquitted himself in a manner of a second to none short stop. Eleven chances came his way. Ten of them he accepted and some of the ground-getters were the most difficult hops that he played ideally.

Wallop Smith had another of his fine days at third base. A strange coincidence was the fact that three putouts each, while the middle meadowmen had five each, a total of eleven putouts in the outfield on both sides.

Harry Chapman got back into the game after an absence of two weeks, and immediately infected some pepper into the fray. His throwing was excellent throughout the pastime, and many a would-be stealer was half-d by his unerring aim.

The Crackers grabbed off a three-run lead in the start. Tommy Long smashed one of Beck's fast ones for Young's head for three cushions. After Welchonce had been retired, Alpermann was handed the same. Shawnee Bill pickled one down the right field line for three cushions, scantling Long and Alpermann home. Beck then vamped home a moment later on Wallop's long clout to center for a sacrifice.

Gibson opened the third for the Vols with a base on balls, raced into the keystone and Daley forced Beck. Callahan kicked in with a single to right field, Daley hopping to third. Dave stole the keystone and Callahan Perry, who always hits like a fiend against the Crackers, poked out a clean drive to center, scoring Daley.

Conzelman Singles.

Smith opened the Crakers' fourth by walking Bisland sacrificed him down and Aaler drew free transportation. After Chapman had fouled out to first, on which both base runners advanced. Conzelman made an effort to win his own game by poking the drive over second, counting two men.

Goalby got a single in the Vols' fifth. Gibson drove him around to second with a clean single to right, Goalby going down on the play. Rudderham had ruled the batter out, but after Chapman's protest he changed his decision to a fair ball. Daley hopped to third base stole the keystone and Callahan Perry, who always hits like a fiend against the Crackers, poked out a clean drive to center, scoring Daley.

WASHINGTON CREW MAKES 2-MILE MARK

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 17.—The four-oared rowing record for two miles was broken this afternoon by Coach Conibear's Washington varsity crew in the time trials of the crews which are to compete Saturday over the Poughkeepsie course for the intercollegiate championship. The Washington four made the distance in 9:58, three seconds faster than the record made by Cornell in 1:09.

EMPIRE STATE LEAGUE

Cordele 2, Brunswick 1.

Brunswick, Ga., June 17.—Walker and Wilder fought out a beautiful pitchers' battle this afternoon, the visiting twirler getting a shade the better of it, and Cordele winning over Brunswick by a score of 2 to 1. Both heavers were in excellent form and hits were scarce. Shortstop Mullen, of Brunswick, was severely injured by Brazier when he was spiked in the first inning.

Thomasville 3, Waycross 2.

Waycross, Ga., June 17.—Manager Dudley broke up a beautiful pitchers' battle in the thirteenth inning today by a home run over the left field fence. The game went to Thomasville by a score of 3 to 2. Murphy hit for a home run in the first with one on, and until the thirteenth Thomasville was held scoreless. O'Brien, a new pitcher, pitched a remarkably good game, getting out of several close places. In the thirteenth Waycross filled the bases with only one out and was unable to put one across. Waycross's fielding in left was a feature. Thomasv... 200 000 000 000 1—3 8 3

Indians 3, Foxes 2.

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—Savannah snatched a ten-inning game from Columbus here today, 3 to 2. Mayer's single scoring Handiboe, with one down, in the final inning. Eidson, a college recruit, twirled for the locals. Columbus scored both its runs in the first, when each of the first six men up reached first base, three on passes, one hit by pitcher, one on a scratch hit and one on an error. Glebel pegged the first two out at second. After the first she recruit twirled great ball. Armstrong featured with the bat and field, getting four hits and a sacrifice fly out of five trips to the plate.

Talbotton 5, Woodland 4.

Woodland, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—In an interesting and exciting game of baseball between Talbotton and Woodland, on the grounds of the latter, Talbotton won by 5 to 4. Neither side scored until the seventh inning Douglas had the Woodland batters completely at his mercy. But for a wild throw by Graham, with the bases full, he would have handed Woodland a "goose egg." Douglas gave up three hits, struck out ten, walked one. The other features of the game were the batting of Douglas, Graham and Spivey's sensational fielding.

Easton, Pa., June 17.—A new world's record for a four-mile relay race was made here today by members of the team of the Boston Athletic association when they covered the distance in 17 minutes and 51 3-5 seconds. The host previous athletic clubs' record was 18 minutes and 4 4-5 seconds by the Irish-American Athletic club of New York.

STRONGHOLD OF MOROS STORMED BY AMERICANS

Washington, June 17.—More details of the fierce fighting which resulted in the complete overthrow of the Moros on the Island of Jolo in the Philippines was continued in a belated dispatch from Brigadier General Pershing, of the American troops. General Pershing says, probably will end outlawry in Jolo for some time.

The last crater stronghold was captured Sunday after hard fighting, the attack being made by two companies of the Philippine scouts commanded by Captain George C. Charlton, supported by First Lieutenant Thomas F. Van Natta, Jr., with mountain guns and two companies of Philippine scouts.

General Pershing confirms the previous report that the American losses were six killed and seven wounded, all enlisted men in the scouts. The Moro losses are unestimated, though known to be heavy.

HAITI PORT SCOURGED BY BUBONIC PLAGUE

Port au Prince, Haiti, June 17.—An epidemic of bubonic plague has broken out at the seaport of Jacmel, thirty miles from here. Numerous cases already have resulted fatally. Jacmel has been isolated from the rest of the country by a cordon of troops, and the government is taking energetic steps to prevent propagation of the disease.

Washington, June 17.—Surgeon General Blue, of the public health service, has taken steps to set up the usual seven-day quarantine against the bubonic plague epidemic in Haiti. Outside of Haiti the sanitary situation in the West Indies is better now than it has been for many months. If the Government of Haiti were to ask the United States for assistance, public health service experts probably would be sent there.

Houston School Census.

Perry, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—The school census enumerators have made their returns to School Commissioner F. M. Greene. The total of all school children between the ages of 8 and 16 years is 6,847, of which 1,709 are white and 5,138 negroes, being a decrease of 65 in the aggregate from the last census. There is an increase in the number of white children of 295 and a decrease in negroes of 360 in the past five years.

FOUR WAYCROSS MEN BARRED FROM CLUB

Waycross, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Following yesterday's protest by Thomasville, Waycross was notified that Morrison, Knupp, Alpermann and Bitting must not appear on the field. President Groover notified Umpire McLaughlin that O'Brien and Hawkins only were eligible to play today. This ruling from the president has left the locals somewhat crippled but changes will come at once.

ATLANTA HELPS YANCEY'S FAMILY

Generous Response Is Made to Appeal to Care for Loved Ones of Man Who Died at Post of Duty.

Atlanta is responding nobly to the Dave Yancey fund. Already more than $300 has been raised, and the amount is expected to swell to $500 within a short while. Contributions are pouring in from all parts of the city.

A surprising sum was raised by the police and detective departments. Private citizens, court and jail attaches and even the grand jury donated their share. Each of the three newspapers contributed $25. Fifty dollars was sent from the sheriff's office, but the largest amount was donated by the superior court lawyers, who gave $102.

Family Needs Help.

A struggling mother and eight young children are placing their hope in the Atlanta spirit. All of the youngsters are under 16 years of age. All are dependent upon the generosity of a community.

A city-wide plea has been sent out from the little home on Jonesboro road, the home which the victim had scarcely begun to pay for. With absolutely no means of support and no visible prospect for the future, they have been deprived of their only source of livelihood.

They have a small farm, which was the pride of the heart of the father who was also the small fall far short of sustaining the large family. Beyond it, they have absolutely nothing from which to gain a living.

Unless money is raised to pay the monthly installments due on the home and property on which the Yancey family are living, they will even be deprived of that. Contributions to endeavor Atlanta began Tuesday to raise funds to purchase the home and to take care of the wife and children.

HON. PLEASANT A. STOVALL.

STOVALL NOMINATED FOR THE SWISS POST

President Sends Name of Savannah Editor to the Senate. Page for Italy.

Register of the land office at Montgomery, Ala., Cato D. Glover.

Pleasant A. Stovall, nominated for minister to Switzerland, is editor of The Savannah, Ga., Press and is one of the leading democrats of the state. Mr. Stovall has frequently represented Savannah in the Georgia legislature. He is identified with the "progressive" wing of the democracy and was a strong supporter of President Wilson in the pre-convention.

Mr. Stovall is a native of Augusta, Ga., and was a schoolmate of President Wilson when the latter's father was pastor of an Augusta church.

BONDS OF TENNESSEE DIFFICULT TO SELL

Nashville, Tenn., June 17.—The Tennessee funding board this afternoon rejected the few bids received on the proposed issue of eleven and a half million dollars of refunding bonds, giving as a ground that the act provided for the sale of all the bonds, not simply a part of them.

The funding board opened bids today at noon, a second time, on the eleven and half million of refunding bonds. The aggregate of the bids was for only $1,665,000 of the total issue.

The bids ranged from $7.43 to par.

The proposed issue is of forty year, 4 per cent bonds, and was authorized to fund the entire state debt, which falls due this year; about $8,800,000 July 1 and about $1,600,000 October 1. An issue of short-term notes to take care of the old bonds till the money market improves has been proposed, but this requires further legislative action. From this the governor desires to call an extra session, but the opposition faction which has kept the session alive desires that the action be taken by securing the attendance of members on the holdover session.

Bids were first opened on the bonds June 2, but were rejected as being too low. The readvertisement followed.

Seelbach Heads Hotel Men.

Louisville, Ky., June 17.—Louis Seelbach, of Louisville, was elected president of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit association at their annual convention here today. Business sessions of the 1914 convention will take place in New York, then the three hundred or more delegates will go abroad.

MISBRANDED MEATS LIABLE TO SEIZURE

Radical Extension of the Food and Drugs Act Is Announced.

Washington, June 17.—Probably the most radical and far-reaching extension of the food and drugs act since its enactment was made today when Secretaries Houston, McAdoo and Redfield, charged with enforcing this statute, ruled that meat and meat products in interstate or foreign commerce which hitherto have been exempted from the provisions of the pure food law, may be seized if misbranded or adulterated. Beginning at once manufacturers of meat foods will be required to comply strictly with the food and drugs act as well as with the meat inspection law.

The action was taken on the strength of an opinion by Attorney General McReynolds. The three secretaries revoked a regulation adopted in October, 1906, only four months after the passage of the pure food law, which had prevented the department of agriculture, according to a statement today by Secretary Houston, "from prosecution against manufacturers of meat foods under the pure food law, or ordering seizures or prosecution for misbranding or adulteration of domestic meats."

Secretary Houston said he could not understand why meat and meat products were not under the sense of the food and drug act, or why his department could not seize bad, adulterated or misbranded meat, once it had entered interstate commerce.

Therefore, he had sought the advice of the attorney general.

"Under the meat inspection law," the secretary said, "meat inspectors have absolutely no power to seize meat or meat food products that have become bad or have been adulterated after they have left a federally inspected establishment. The only remedy possible now is the meat act is to proceed criminally against any, one selling bad meat, but even in this event bad meat cannot be seized nor its sale prevented.

"With the regulation of 1906 revoked the department can seize and prevent the sale of bad and adulterated meat, once it has crossed the state line and remains in interstate commerce. In case spoiled meat is again found in a federally inspected establishment it comes, of course, under the jurisdiction of the meat inspection law and can be destroyed as heretofore has been done. Under the new decision the government can control meat foods from the hoof on the range to the subject only to the limitations of the power of the federal government in interstate commerce.

"The department is empowered to require all manufactured meat products to conform fully to its labelling regulation and can enforce its penalties. Prosecutions and seizures for misbranding and adulteration."

MRS. CATT BEING URGED TO KEEP PRESIDENCY

Budapest, June 17.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York, president of the International Suffrage Alliance, was presented today with an address signed by the delegates of all the countries represented at the congress begging her to reconsider her intention to resign the presidency. The whole meeting stood while the address was read.

Mrs. Catt warmly thanked the delegates. She said she believed the president should serve another term. International jealousies, especially continental dislike of Great Britain, render it difficulty to elect a president from any European country.

The congress decided that only one representative of the American Woman's Suffrage would be added as a fraternal delegate. The Woman's Republic had sent twenty delegates, while other affiliated societies had sent only one each. Jane Addams, of Chicago, and Rev. Anna Shaw were the principal speakers at a mass meeting tonight.

High Prices for Old Masters.

Paris, June 17.—Some high prices were brought by old masters at the sale today in the collectio nof Marczell de Nemes of Budapest. Rembrandt's portrait of his father was sold for $103,200, and Franz Hal's "Portrait of a Gentleman," for $58,000.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN, URGES UNDERWOOD

Speaking at Virginia University, Democratic Leader Pleads for Conservatism.

Charlottesville, Va., June 17.—A plea for conservatism in politics, a "stop, look, listen" policy to guard against hasty adoption of ill-considered proposals, as the keynote of an address on "The Tendency of Our Times," delivered at the University of Virginia today by Representative Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, democratic leader of the house of representatives. It was a notable occasion at Charlottesville, with many of those who have gone forth from the university in the past, reassembled to pay tribute to their alma mater. Mr. Underwood is president of the alumni and his son was among the graduates.

Mr. Underwood preached the doctrine of the political uplift. "There are many changes," he said, "taking place today in the political, economic and industrial development of the nation. To the man lost in the maze of his own business, who has not the time or desire to climb to the heights above his own personal desires and ambitions, the way seems dangerous and the onward march beset with perils. But the man who 'is not tied down by the personal equation is able to realize that the line of march leads to the progress of mankind and uplift of society."

Mr. Underwood said the adoption of two amendments to the constitution within the past year, one affecting the political machinery of the government and the other changing the fiscal policy of the nation, clearly demonstrated that there is a strong sentiment in the country to break away from the fixed standards that have controlled the government in the past and that an onward movement is leading to the adjustment of national life to new condition and progressive ideals.

"No man," he added, "is so bold as to declare that the recent constitutional changes are not in the interest of better government for the whole people and that they have not equalized and strengthened our fiscal system.

"What may be regarded as radical today may be the inner citadel of conservatism tomorrow. The danger that confronts the nation is not that of the nation comes from the hasty adoption of ill considered proposals, sometimes coming from honest but ill-advised advocates of real progress and as often coming from the cunning hirelings of reactionary interests who would hinder the orderly progress or start a false movement to mislead and confuse in the hope that they may delay the day when special privileges shall be divorced from our economic and governmental system. We should move forward with conservatism that will look to the good of public sentiment and abandon a radical onrush that may lead to disaster or delay the accomplishment of a good result."

Mr. Underwood paid tribute to the precepts and teachings of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the University of Virginia, as a "light unto the feet and a light unto the path."

900 TELEPHONE GIRLS STRIKE AT ST. LOUIS

St Louis, June 17.—Girl telephone operators in the employment of the Southwestern Telephone (Bell) company struck this morning when officials of the company refused to negotiate with the union. President Jas. Noonan, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers, said 900 girls were out. Officials of the company said that less than 50 per cent of the girls quit work.

In all, a few men were discharged and electrical union officials said it was because they had been active in union organization. When reinstatement for the girls was refused the girls began to organize. The girls planned to strike at 11 o'clock this morning. Earlier than this, however, committees of three girls each started from union headquarters to notify the operators at the various exchanges that the strike was on.

At the main exchange the committee girls, finding themselves barred, climbed to the roof of a six-story building across the street, and tried to signal the operators at work. The independent lines are not affected.

WOMAN HAD PLANNED TO KILL PHYSICIAN

Something Dreadful Is About to Happen, Wrote Mrs. Whisnant to Her Mother.

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—That Mrs. Katie Whisnant, the young widow who killed herself late yesterday afternoon after she had shot to death Dr. Guy O. Brinkley in his private office here, had determined before she left her home to kill the physician, is indicated in a note Mrs. Whisnant addressed to her mother, which was found in her bedroom today.

In this note Mrs. Whisnant stated that "something dreadful" was about to happen, and she besought her mother's forgiveness for her act. The unused portion of the box of cartridges with which Mrs. Whisnant loaded the revolver she used in the tragedy also was found in her room.

The identity of the woman who accompanied Mrs. Whisnant to Dr. Brinkley's office has been discovered by the police, but it is said she convinced the authorities that she had no idea of the intentions of Mrs. Whisnant when she went to the physician's office with her.

The funeral of Dr. Brinkley will be held in Suffolk, Va., the body leaving here this afternoon. The body of Mrs. Whisnant was taken this morning to Sylvania, Ga., where she formerly lived, for interment.

SOLDIERS AND STRIKERS ARE WOUNDED IN RIOTS

Milan, Italy, June 17.—Several soldiers and strikers were wounded in riots participated in by strikers and non-strikers and in conflicts between strikers and the police and troops today when attempts were made to render the general strike of workmen effective. The general strike in all trades was proclaimed Saturday as a protest against the imprisonment of 18 workmen arrested for outbreaks at the recent strike at the iron works. An attempt was made to extend the strike movement throughout Italy, but so far the effort has been unsuccessful, though the situation at Milan has become acute. The authorities believe they are in a position to cope with the situation.

INFERNAL MACHINE MANGLES TWO WOMEN

Sherbrooke, Quebec, June 17.—An infernal machine sent by mail when opened here today killed one woman and mortally wounded another.

The woman killed was Mrs. Theodore Bilodeau. Miss Bilodeau, her sister-in-law, was hurt. The force of the explosion hurled the latter across the room and severed one arm. The house was wrecked.

The package arrived about noon, and the two women were bending over it, untying the strings when it exploded. The police have no clew to the sender.

NEW COUNTIES BRING TAX VALUE INCREASE

Eleven Million Added by Eleven New Counties Authorized in Nine Years.

Whatever objection may be raised to the creation of new counties as a general proposition, it is shown by the records of the comptroller general's office that the creation of each new county in Georgia has been followed by a rapid increase in tax values in the territory absorbed by the new county.

The new counties of Tift, Turner, Grady, Jenkins and others are splendid examples of this fact; in some instances the tax values have more than doubled within a period of five years or less.

A conservative estimate is that the eleven new counties created in Georgia in the last nine years have added $11,000,000 to taxable values in Georgia, which would not have been added had there been no new county creation.

The Candler county proposition in southeast Georgia, where it is proposed to make Metter, in the western end of Bulloch, the seat of the new county, is put forward as a splendid example of the possibilities in this direction. When good roads are constructed throughout the 561 square miles, which the people promise themselves as soon as they get their own county government, there will be a big increase in property values right off the bat. The proposed Candler county area now has property, exclusive of railroads, returned at $2,729,00. With a county government of its own and with one of the richest agricultural territories in the state to work upon, it is evident that the taxable values of this territory can be doubled within the next five years.

WOMAN TALKS OF LAWS THAT CLUB THE PRESS

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 17.—The freedom of the press is endangered by recent statutes and court decisions affecting newspapers in the belief of Mrs. L. R. Eastwood, of Watertown, S. D., Mrs. Eastwood's paper on "Laws that Club the Press," was one of the features of today's program at the 28th annual convention of the National Press Association of North America.

Mrs. Julia V. Strauss, of Rockville, Ind., told of a "Woman's Experience in Journalism."

Closer organization and the consideration of effective methods of promoting the business interests of the members, with possibly the establishment of an advertising agency were urged by A. D. Moffett, of Elwood, Ind., president of the association.

"Changed conditions have created a demand for something more than mere association," said President Moffett.

"The low rates paid for advertising by the middlemen and the large profits made through it are well known. There is a growing belief among our members that an agency for the handling of foreign advertising should be established."

Elaborate Preparations Made for Entertainment of Grand Council, Which Convenes Today.

Columbus, Ga., June 17.—(Special.) Elaborate preparations have been completed for entertaining Georgia Red Men, who will attend the thirty-fourth annual gathering of the great council, which will begin here tomorrow and last through Thursday. The entertainment plans have been perfected by committees of members from the three local tribes of Red Men, the memberships of which aggregate several hundred. The general entertainment committee is headed by Hon. L. H. Chappell, mayor of Columbus.

Among the entertainment features will be a trolley ride over the city and suburbs tomorrow afternoon and a steamboat trip on the Chattahoochee river tomorrow night.

Following speeches of welcome and responses tomorrow morning, the business session will be begun and will be continued Thursday morning.

It seems certain that the attendance will be large.

The great council will be one of nine conventions for 1913 that will have been held in Columbus by the end of the year.

PENSION MONEY READY, BUT STILL UNCLAIMED

While there was a rush to draw pensions in April when the payments were started to confederate veterans and their widows, there are thirteen who have never yet drawn their money, and unless they call upon Ordinary John R. HARVESTS ARE GOOD THERE WILL BE PLENTY OF GOLD

Give Calamity Howler Forbes a vacation and us a rest for the balance of the summer. We are tired of his pessimism.

Why fight the Administration, when he must use methods that are "below the belt?"

One day he claims that the banks of the country can't supply the West and South with money to move the splendid crops that are in sight. The next day he claims that the Administration will run all the gold to Europe because it has provided enough emergency currency to move these crops.

He knows you can't legislate gold into America, and that the only way to force it here is by sending our grain and cotton to Europe. This is the law of economics.

He knows that the grain of the West and the cotton of the South have brought gold to America whenever it was claimed that there was a shortage of gold. Neither the gamblers of Wall Street nor the political party in control of the Government ever forced the gold to come back.

If Mr. Forbes will "go way back and sit down" at some sanitarium, regulate his liver, and stay there until the crops are harvested and Europe's gold put on shipboard for America, then Mr. Forbes can go and count the yellow piles that are visible in the banks of America to the credit of our people, and reporting what he finds, he will become an optimist and a helper like other writers.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL NEWS OF DAY

COTTON WAS ACTIVE MOST OF THE SESSION

New Crop Months Made New High Records, But Selling Set In.

New York, June 17.—The cotton market was active and more or less excited today, with new crop positions again leading the advance and making new high ground for the movement. Closing prices were off from the best, under realizing and southern selling with the final tone steady at a net decline of 2 points to an advance of 9 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points, stables were lower than due and the weather map was considered very favorable, while there were reports in from the eastern belt indicating that the crop was making very rapid progress with the prevailing warm weather.

Prices eased off to a net decline of some 6 to 8 points right after the call in consequence, but offerings were well taken at the decline and the market turned very firm during the late forenoon on a renewal of bull support and active covering. Stop orders were uncovered on a scale up and October contracts touched 12.75, with new crop positions generally selling 14 to 27 points net higher.

The demand seemed to come largely from Wall street and uptown sources and was supposed to represent support from operators who had recently covered short cotton and were making the long side on the advance, while the European and local longs were credited with most of the selling. After the stop orders were executed the market turned a shade easier on the favorable weekly weather report.

In the afternoon houses with foreign and southern connections were heavy sellers of new crop months.

The close was some 5 to 10 points off from the best on active positions.

July was relatively quiet during the day, selling only 5 points net higher and showing a net loss of 2 points at the close.

Cotton spot closed steady, 5 points up; middling uplands 12.40, middling gulf 12.65; sales none.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 17.—Cotton displayed new-crop strength today from the beginning to the finish, little advance was high enough to check the season, and most above the close of yesterday was maintained. Although the market responded to the bullish weekly weather report, it was not more in favor of the bull side and a further material rise than the previous day's trade.

The opening was steady at a loss of 4 to 12 points, with prices under a favorable weather map. Private advices from the Georgia-Carolina section stated that continental traders were accepting the advance from the bull side, realizing sales on the one side and in the early trading prices went under the influence of the favorable report. This was the low of the day. Around 11 o'clock, with the publication of the weekly weather report, the ring displayed considerable activity and heavy buying came in which put the October position 25 points above the low point, a net gain of 4 to 9 points over yesterday's final figures. Realizing sales developed from the buying movement and narrow. The close was called steady at a net loss for the day of 3 to 6 points.

The weather map was dry and warm, except in the extreme Texas and Red river districts, where continued fair weather for practically the entire week is promised. The forecast for the weekly weather report was more favorable than expected, and the fact that the Texas section, which has had a strong bullish influence on the market, was not mentioned in the report, had a strong bearish effect.

Spot cotton closed steady, 5 points up; middling 12 9-16, net receipts 1,543 bales, gross 2,718, stock 54,241.

ABUNDANT RAINS MADE WHEAT PRICES LOSE

Market at Close Showed Decline of One and Quarter to Two Cents.

Chicago, June 17.—Rains over the spring crop region had a violent bearish effect today on wheat. There was a setback of 1 1-4@1 3-4c to net with a nervous close. Corn finished 5-8@3-4 to 7-8c down, oats 3-4 to 1c and provisions varying from last nights level to 12 1-2c decline.

All the big commission companies had on hand at the opening stacks of orders to sell wheat. It was evident the trade had undergone a complete reversal of sentiment, and that the edge was off the drought scare, so far as the northwest was involved. Low temperatures in that section added to the troubles which fairly general downpours had brought on the bulls. Free offerings of both old and new cash holdings counted severely against futures, and there was no sign of export call. Announcement of an increase of more than 25 per cent in Montana acreage emphasized weakness in the final dealings, and so also did predictions of further moisture. Primary receipts of wheat were 489,000 bushels; a year ago 207,000 bushels. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour totalled 144,000 bushels.

Although temporary demand from timid shorts carried corn higher than yesterday, the market later was swayed by rural advices telling of alleged rapid progress that the crop was making in some sections of Illinois in spite of the unusual heat. Slimness of shipping from here cut considerable figure, too, in abating the eagerness of speculative buyers.

Notice of rainfall in the big producing states lifted oats to a new high point for the season. A rush of profit taking by longs, though, sweeping prices later down with wheat and corn.

Larger current receipts for hogs at western centers counted against provisions. Packers' purchases likewise suffered on account of the break in grain.

STOCKS TARTED OFF WITH DULL MARKET

But Rally Was Made and Most of the Early Losses Recovered.

New York, June 17.—An uncertain course was followed today by the stock market, which was dull to the point of stagnation much of the time. The close found prices of many representative stocks well above yesterday's final figures, although below the highest quotations of the session.

The slump of the market yesterday apparently was discouraging to foreign holders of American securities, who sold freely here. Foreign selling was a large factor in the decline at the opening and London disposed of about 20,000 shares here on balance.

In spite of the pressure from abroad and renewed selling by traders who sought to extend declines, the market quickly rallied from the opening break, rising with an ease which suggested that the short interest had been largely extended. The decline induced no further liquidation and bear traders, finding the market moving them, covered. Reading was in especially good demand and displayed most strength of the leaders. The Harriman shares were helped by reports that a dissolution plan had been worked out to the satisfaction of all interested.

Interborough Metropolitan preferred, which has developed marked strength recently, rose nearly 2 points, to the accompaniment of gossip concerning prospects of a dividend payment.

One reason ascribed for the increasing dullness of the market was the disposition of traders to hold off until President Wilson's message regarding currency is read and some definite word is received regarding the attitude of the courts toward the latest plans for segregation of the Harriman roads.

Bonds were firm, total sales par value, $1,441,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money and Exchange.

New York, June 17.—Money on call steady, 2@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2½; closing bid, 2¼; offered at 2½.

Time loans easier; 60 days, 4@4¼ per cent; 90 days, 4@4¼ per cent; six months, 4½@4¾ per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent.

Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8320 for 60-day bills and at $4.8540 for demand.

Commercial bills, 482½.

Bar silver, 59¼.

Mexican dollars, 48.

Government bonds steady; railroad bonds firm.

Foreign Finances.

Cash in hand increased, 45,148,000 marks.

Notes issued, 1,000,000 marks.

Discounts decreased 28,344,000 marks.

Treasury bills, increased, 11,922,000 marks.

Investments decreased, 1,507,000 marks.

Gold in hand increased, 33,980,000 marks.

Silver in hand increased, 1,167,000 marks.

Loans decreased, according to 27,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance today.

Paris, June 17.—Three per cent rentes 83 francs 30 centimes for the account. Exchange on London 25 francs 17½ centimes.

Private rate of discount 3¾ per cent.

Berlin, June 17.—Exchange on London, 20 marks 42½ pfennigs for checks. Money, 4 per cent. Private rate of discount, 3⅝@3¾ per cent.

London Stock Market.

London, June 17.—The stock market was depressed today. The closing was irregular and near the lowest. Americans were heavy. American securities fluctuated irregularly during the forenoon, but the tendency showed little interest. The market was weak until late in the session. New York buying caused a slight recovery and a steadier closing.

Consols for money 73 1-16; for account, 73 3/16.

Illinois Central, 115.

Louisville and Nashville, 153¾.

Southern Railway, 21¾.

Bar silver, steady, 27d.

Money, 3@3½ per cent.

Discount rates, short and three months, 4½.

Rice.

New Orleans, June 17.—Rice strong. Receipts Rough, none; clean, none. Japan, none. Rough, none; clean Honduras, none. Japan, nominal, 5¼@5¾. Rough Honduras, nominal; clean Honduras, 4¼@4¾; Japan, 3¾@3¾.

Wool.

Boston, June 17.—Trading in domestic wool is said to be "spotty," with values still holding firm. Montana wools are in demand and offerings of territory wools are not large. Buyers for the new clip are more active in the west.

In the Texas wool section, general apathy exists on account of the high prices which have and are likely to obtain in the future. A fair business is reported in Texas fall wools.

Among leading domestic quotations: Delaine, fleece, 23@24. ¼ blood, combing, 23@24. ¼ blood, combing, 23@24. ¼ blood unwashed, 23@24. ⅜ blood unwashed, 24@25.

Territory wools: 12 months, 29@30; fine, 6 to 8 months, 27@28; fine fall, 25@26.

GOOD OLD POTATOES AT 6 CENTS A BUSHEL

Kansas City, Mo., June 17.—To save scores of cars of last year's potatoes from rotting in the railway yards here because of a glutted market, the Housewives' League of Kansas City today opened negotiations with the railroads to obtain the twenty-nine cars of the produce for sale to consumers at 6 cents a bushel.

Thousands of bushels of good old potatoes offered at 10 to 20 cents a bushel have not been sold since the growers, who held them for better prices, found themselves in competition with an influx of new potatoes. The railroads were ordered to dispose of the potatoes at any price, the proceeds to go toward covering freight charges.

DAYTON COAL COMPANY IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 17.—The Dayton Coal and Iron company went into receivership Monday, Chancellor Allison of Rhea county, appointing H. F. Nones receiver. Assets will involve a million dollars, including two furnaces at Dayton. Liabilities not stated. This is partly the result of the suspension of James Watson & Sons, of Glasgow, Scotland, largely interested in the plant financially.

Assets Realization Company

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS $11,000,000

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

An interesting announcement of Tuesday was that of the sale of the lease of the Brasselton drug store at the northeast corner of Forsyth and Marietta streets. The Jacobs' Pharmacy company has bought the lease as well as the stock of goods. This will make the eleventh drug store maintained by the Jacobs' company in Atlanta.

The purchase lease applies only to the store and does not affect the rest of the building. The lease has about three years to run at a consideration of $6,000 per year.

Realty Sales.

The Martin-Ogburn Realty company has sold for Mrs. Thomas of Hodges to Charles A. Smith No. 765 West Peachtree street, a nine-room, two-story

$500 EXEMPTION FOR EACH CHILD

Income Tax Change Proposed to Favor Big Families. $4,000 Exemption May Also Be Lowered to $3,000.

Washington, June 17.—An additional exemption of $500 for each child of a family in the income tax section of the tariff revision bill was determined upon tonight by the senate finance subcommittee of which Senator Williams is chairman, and the change will be recommended to the majority members of the committee tomorrow. Having determined upon this important amendment the subcommittee also is seriously considering recommending changing the $4,000 exemption in the Underwood bill to $3,000.

This, it is argued, would greatly increase the revenue, and with the additional exemption proposed for children would not impose hardship upon the heads of families.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, said tonight that the democratic caucus of the senate would be called for Thursday whether the finance committee majority had concluded with the schedules or not and that the caucus could go over schedules already completed while committee was finishing its work. Senator Simmons hopes to get the bill into the senate by Saturday.

Tomorrow the full committee will take up the income tax and administrative features of the bill having concluded the sundries schedule late tonight.

A recommendation of the sub-committee to increase the tax on cut diamonds also not accepted by the majority.

James Wants Free Meat.

Senator Ollie James, of Kentucky, who made the sugar tariff speech in the senate defending the stand of the democratic majority, has taken a vigorous position in the finance committee against the imposition of a countervailing duty on meat and cattle and today announced that he would carry the fight to the democratic senatorial caucus if he failed to swing the committee into line.

When the majority members of the finance committee resumed consideration of the proposed countervailing duties on agricultural products Senator James emphatically declared that the public was entitled to cheaper and free cattle and meat. He did not oppose the action of the democrats in free listing sugar, but would not favor countervailing duty added, but he opposed such a duty on cattle and meat so strenuously that final action on the matter was deferred. Senator Simmons announced that the matter was settled for presentation to the caucus in so far as wheat and flour were concerned.

Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, whose amendment to the tariff bill levying a graduated tax on tobacco output was rejected by his colleagues on the finance committee, gave notice in the senate that he would offer the same amendment to the caucus and make a determined fight for its incorporation in the bill. He also introduced an amendment providing for a graduated income tax on all corporations having a capital stock of more than $100,000,000 and controlling more than one-fourth of the production of any commodity. This, he said, he also would urge in the caucus.

The Tax on Bananas.

The action of the finance majority in putting a tax on bananas yesterday was explained as a revenue proposition today. "We have placed a tariff of 3 cents a bunch on bananas," said Senator Simmons, "for the purpose of raising revenue and also for the reason that the banana trade is absolutely controlled by a trust. I am not disposed to protect or encourage any banana industry in this country, because there is none. We estimate that the amount likely to be derived from bananas at 3 cents a bunch will aggregate $2,000,000 and the small duty of 3 cents a bunch will not very well be shifted to the consumer."

The Aldrich boat can no longer lord it over the statistically feeble and proclaim its irrefutable facts, for the democrats of the senate finance committee have put into the tariff bill a provision by striking out of the Underwood tariff rate of 10 per cent ad valorem on the hair of the Angora goat and transferring it to the 5 per cent list. This action by the committee has caused to the wake and means committee of the house and added a new subjugated point in the wool schedule.

"BLACKGUARD," YELLED SENATOR

itary conditions were as "good as they were anywhere else around mines." The senator contradicted the statement. When he and the witness engaged in an argument, Mr. Watts interfered.

"Mr. Chairman, I object to the senator," he shouted, "brow-beating and bullying this witness. He should not take advantage of his position as a senator of the United States."

Senator Martine shouted, "I am a senator of the United States and I am exercising my perogatives as a senator. You gentlemen with wealth and power at your command should provide sanitary conditions to protect the lives of these working men."

"West Virginia," interrupted Watts, "does not need to go to the mosquito-ridden swamps of New Jersey to learn sanitation."

Martine and Watts were arguing heatedly when Senator Kenyon interrupted then Senator Swanson took command of the situation.

He defended the position of Senator Martine and reprimanded Mr. Watts.

Martine-Morton Clash Violent.

The clash between Senator Martine and Quinn Morton, who operates several mines, was so violent that Senator Swanson adjourned the hearing.

Senator Martine interrupted Mr. Morton's story to demand that he tell what he knew of the armored train at Holly Grove. Mr. Morton described arranging for the trip with Sheriff Bonner Hill and buying thirty-one rifles to arm men on the train. Mr. Morton asserted that before the train reached Holly Grove the lights were turned down on the train because Sheriff Hill said the train was to "shot up." Sheriff Hill was in charge of the train according to Morton.

Everybody Shot.

"Just as we got to Holly Grove," he said, "I heard two shots from the crowd. Then came the cannonade. One window in the car was broken and a second later a general fusillade, both from the train and from the gang. I fired a shot, of course, just as everybody else did."

Mr. Morton and Attorney Vinson remonstrated excitedly when Senator Martine demanded:

"In your conference do you approve of the use of a machine gun to shoot up a village inhabited by defenseless women and children?"

As the debate argued over the question, Senator Martine shouted:

"I thank God I am not a lawyer."

Outrageous, Says Morton.

"Senator Martine already has made an outrageous attack on me," said Mr. Morton, excitedly. "He senator without any proof, has, by his questions, accused me of attacking women and children in their homes with a machine gun. This treatment is outrageous and not even an United States senator should be allowed to prejudice a case in this manner."

Senator Martine said that he had not prejudged the case and again demanded of Mr. Morton whether there was any justification of the use of the machine gun. Mr. Morton declined to answer.

"Well, I can stand the silence and so can the people," said Senator Martine, "if you can."

"Do you own your coal mining lands?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"We do not."

"Who owns the land?"

"The Paint Creek Coal and Land company."

"What is that company?"

"It is a company controlled by Charles Pratt, of New York."

"The Standard Oil man?" asked Senator Martine.

"Yes, sir."

After his clash with Mr. Morton, Senator Martine left the room, but returned within a few minutes and the trouble between them broke out again with the first question asked by the senator. Mr. Martine wanted to know whether Mr. Morton had expressed satisfaction at the effect produced by the shot on Holly Grove but Senator Swanson, scenting trouble, adjourned the committee.

Few Drinks Suggested.

"Well," remarked Morton, "we'll all go down and take a few drinks and then we'll feel better."

The crowd had started toward the door when it was arrested by a shout of Senator Martine.

"What was that you said, sir?" he demanded, leaning toward Mr. Morton.

"I said we'll all go down and have a few drinks and we'll feel better," repeated the mine operator.

"You are a blackguard of the worst character to make such a remark to me," shouted Senator Martine.

Out of the confusion came the voice of Morton:

"If you do not take three drinks with me in thirty minutes—"

With a bound Senator Martine covered the short distance that separated the two men.

"You have forfeited all right to consideration as a decent white man," he shouted.

"You are an excited old man," interposed Attorney Vinson, as both men moved towards each other. Vinson repeated against his client "being insulted."

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Bud Fisher and the other stars of vaudeville making up the bill of entertainment at the Forsyth this week will record one of the big attendance days of the summer season. That bill is all that has been said for it and then some. It is a combination of delightful features perfect and a pleasing arrangement of variety and clatter, with great novelty, excellent song and music and just the sort of comedy for hot weather. Fisher and Welch has scored quite a triumph in her specialty. The pretty miss is decidedly clever as a comedienne.

"The Duke of Durham."

(At the Bijou.)

Another successful week of musical comedy is scheduled for the Bijou and patrons of the house have put the stamp of approval on "The Duke of Durham," the attraction that is drawing such large crowds to the popular playhouse this week.

Lou Shean, the German comedian, is a prime funmaker, and he hands out a brand of comedy that creates much laughter. The several vaudeville turns are good and the work of the chorus received generous applause.

Despite the warm weather, the Bijou is packed to its capacity every night.

In order to make patrons of the Bijou comfortable during the summer months the management of this house has installed an ozone machine in the balcony.

"Quo Vadis."

(At the Grand.)

"Quo Vadis" is crowding the Grand at the daily matinee and night presentations of this wonderful photo play. It is hard to describe the wonders at the picture, but that no one is tired after viewing the scenes for more than two hours, is the most eloquent argument in its favor. "Quo Vadis" was produced in Italy by the famous Cines society. It was given a private exhibition for big producers some months ago and Mr. Kleine did not hesitate a moment to take the American rights at a sum that is equal to a real fortune. Original films, eight of them, measuring more than 10,000 feet, were brought to New York and an exhibition given. Now there are ten different shows on in the United States.

T. R. IS FOR PEACE WITH A GREAT NAVY

Boston, June 17.—The biggest "night before" in the history of the Charleston district preceded the booming of cannon and the ringing of bells in beginning today the celebration of the 138th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill. Midnight speeches were made by former President Theodore Roosevelt, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and United States Treasurer John Burke.

"I will never," said the colonel, "consent to arbitrate national questions of vital honor and national interests. Uncle Sam will never arbitrate a slap in the face, and in the last resort the navy is Uncle Sam's punch."

Notice is hereby given that at the meeting of the Mayor and General Council of the city of Atlanta, held on the 16th day of June, 1913, an ordinance was introduced and read, providing for the construction of a sewer along and in Bonaire avenue, from Bonaire avenue to Woodburn avenue. The general character, material and size of said sewer are as follows: 8-inch vitrified pipe with brick manholes, etc. Said sewer to be built at an estimated cost of $1,000. Said ordinance for the construction of said sewer may be adopted at the meeting of the Mayor and General Council of said city of Atlanta, to be held Monday, July 7, 1913, at 3 o'clock p. m., in the City Council Chamber, or at any subsequent meeting of said Mayor and General Council. Said sewer is to be built in accordance with the act amending the Charter of said city, approved August 15, 1912, the ordinances of said city, amending 70 cents per lineal foot upon the property and estates respectively abutting on said sewer, and not exceeding the total cost of same.

WALTER C. TAYLOR, City Clerk.

Notice to extend pipe from water main to curb line.

Whereas, by amendment to the Charter of the city of Atlanta, approved August 15, 1912, the Mayor and General Council of the city of Atlanta were authorized and empowered to extend pipes from water mains to curb line, prior to paving or re-paving streets in which such water mains are laid and to assess the cost of such extension against the abutting property owners, provided that such assessment be made only for every fifty feet of frontage unless the property owner waives this requirement.

Therefore, it resolved by the Mayor and General Council of the city of Atlanta, as follows:

Section 1. That water pipes be extended from the water mains in West Mitchell street between its intersection with Madison avenue and Davis street, from said water mains to curb line in front of the abutting property along said portion of said street at intervals corresponding to re-pavings to each fifty feet of frontage on either side of said portion of said street.

Said extensions to be constructed of pipe of material and size as follows: 8-inch galvanized wrought iron pipe and at an estimated cost of two hundred ($200.00) dollars, said sum to be taken from appropriation to Department of Waterworks.

Sec. 2. That under the provisions of said several extensions in said portion of said street, a list of the property owners, with the amount to be assessed against the abutting property of each owner, shall be filed with the Mayor and General Council and an assessing ordinance passed specifically providing the amount of money to be paid by each lot or lots along said portion of said street.

Sec. 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.

Said ordinance will be considered at a meeting of General Council to be held July 7, 1913, at 3 p. m., in the Council Chamber.

WALTER C. TAYLOR, Clerk of Council.

Notice to extend pipe from water main to curb line.

An ordinance to extend pipe from water main to curb lines in South Prado from the Prado to Peachtree.

Whereas, by amendment to the Charter of the city of Atlanta, approved August 15, 1912, the Mayor and General Council of the city of Atlanta were authorized and empowered to extend pipes from water mains to curb line, prior to paving or re-paving streets in which such water mains are laid and to assess the cost of such extension against the abutting property owners, provided that such assessment be made only for every fifty feet of frontage, unless the property owner waives this requirement.

Therefore, it resolved by the Mayor and General Council of the city of Atlanta as follows:

Section 1. That water pipes be extended from the water mains in South Prado between its intersection with Peachtree and Piedmont avenue, from said water mains to the curb lines in front of the abutting property along said portion of said street at intervals corresponding to one extension for every fifty feet of frontage on either side of said portion of said street.

Said extensions to be constructed of pipe of material and size as follows: 8-inch galvanized wrought iron pipe and at an estimated cost of two hundred ($200.00) dollars, said sum to be taken from appropriation to Department of Waterworks.

Sec. 2. That upon the construction of said several extensions in said portion of said street, a list of the property owners, with the amount to be assessed against the abutting property of each owner, shall be filed with the Mayor and General Council and an assessing ordinance passed specifically providing the amount of money to be paid by each lot or lots along said portion of said street.

Sec. 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.

Said ordinance will be considered at a meeting of General Council to be held July 7, 1913, at 3 p. m., in the Council Chamber.

WALTER C. TAYLOR, Clerk of Council.

CORNER INVESTMENT

In every growing city CORNERS are the foundation of wealth. Only TWO corners on Whitehall from Alabama to Forsyth Street Junction can be bought.

One at $485 per foot is today the best buy on the street. It pays about 5 per cent.

Land same distance out Peachtree would sell at $2,500 per foot. Grading, the law of equalization and preponderance of population will force this corner to around $1,000 per foot.

A positive profit and a safe investment.
